Cities of the Global South Reader Faranak Miraftab,Neema Kudva,2014-10-10 The Cities of the Global South

Reader adopts a fresh and critical approach to the field of urbanization in the developing world. The Reader incorporates both early and emerging debates about the diverse trajectories of urbanization processes in the context of the restructured global alignments in the last three decades. Emphasizing the historical legacies of colonialism, the Reader recognizes the entanglement of conditions and concepts often understood in binary relations: first world's wealth, poverty, development, underdevelopment, and inclusion/exclusion. By asking whose city, whose development, the Reader rigorously highlights the fractures along lines of class, race, gender, and other socially and spatially constructed hierarchies in global South cities. The Reader's thematic structure, where editorial introductions accompany selected texts, examines the issues and concerns that urban dwellers, planners, and policy makers face in the contemporary world. These include the urban economy, housing, basic services, infrastructure, the role of non-state/civil society-based actors, planned interventions, and contestations, the role of diaspora capital, the looming problem of adapting to climate change, and the increasing spectre of violence in a post-9/11 transnational world.

Cities of the Global South Reader pulls together a diverse set of readings from scholars across the world, some of which have been written specially for the volume to provide an essential resource for a broad interdisciplinary readership at undergraduate and postgraduate levels in urban geography, urban sociology, and urban planning, as well as disciplines related to international and development studies. Editorial commentaries that introduce the central issues for each theme summarize the state of the field and outline an associated bibliography. They will be of particular value for lecturers, students, and researchers, making the Cities of the Global South Reader a key text for those interested in understanding contemporary urbanization processes.

Cities and Mega Risks Mohammad Aslam Khan, 2022-10-11. This book focuses on the emergence of COVID-19 and climate change as twin mega risks to cities of both developed and developing countries. The work analyses how the pandemic has transformed city functions, promoted remote working, and affected socializing, education, and learning patterns, recreation, as well as shopping and entertainment. It discusses the lessons learned from these two Mega Risks, the evolution of urban patterns and functions in their wake, and provides visionary thinking for the improvement of cities from the experiences gained. The COVID-19 Pandemic and climate change are both posing serious threats to cities' future. Together, they demand changes in the ways cities function and operate. The work presents a case for a better understanding of the twin mega risks, the magnitude of their impacts, the responses of cities in combating these issues, and planning strategies for preparing, mitigating, and adapting to these and future risks. The book is designed to provide reliable resource materials for a wide audience, such as planners, professional practitioners, scientists, students, teachers, and researchers working in various fields, including geography, environmental sciences, social sciences, policy, and planning.

Disrupted Cities Stephen Graham, 2010-06-10. In a rapidly urbanizing world, Disrupted Cities is the first book to explore what disruptions in essential energy, communication, water, food, transport, and waste infrastructures mean for urban life.
