An exciting design, unusual in character, yet fun to live in. This frame home, with its vertical siding and large glass areas, has as its dramatic focal point an hexagonal living area which gives way to interesting angles. The large living area features sliding glass doors through which traffic may pass to the terrace stretching across the entire length of the house. The wide overhanging roof projects over the terrace and results in a large covered area outside the sliding doors of the master bedroom. The sloping ceilings converge above the unique open fireplace with its copper hood. The drive approach and the angles of the covered front entrance make this an eye-catching design. Surely a design for a new lease on living.
