Advisory Committee on Human Radiation Experiments, 1995 Interim Report of the Advisory Committee on Human Radiation Experiments United States. Advisory Committee on Human Radiation Experiments, 1995 Interim Report of the Advisory Committee on Human Radiation Experiments , 1994 The Advisory Committee on Human Radiation Experiments was created by President Clinton to advise the Human Radiation Interagency Working Group on the ethical and scientific criteria applicable to human radiation experiments carried out or sponsored by the U S Government The Committee seeks to answer several fundamental question What ethics criteria should be used to evaluate human radiation experiments What was the Federal Government s role in human radiation experiments What are the criteria for determining appropriate Federal responses where wrongs or harms have occurred What lessons learned from studying past and present research standards and practices should be applied to the future The Committee has been gathering vast amounts of information and working to render it orderly and accessible In the next six months the Committee will continue with the tasks of data gathering and organizing The focus of the work however will be developing criteria for judging historical and contemporary experiments policies and procedures as well as criteria for remedies that may be appropriate where harms or wrongs have occurred Based on findings the Committee will make specific recommendations regarding policies for the future Advisory Committee on Human Radiation Experiments United States. Advisory Committee on Human Radiation Experiments, 1995 Final Report of the Advisory Committee on Human Radiation Experiments United States. Advisory Committee on Human Radiation Experiments, 1996 This book describes in fascinating detail a variety of experiments sponsored by the U S government in which people were exposed to radiation without their knowledge After reviewing hundreds of thousands of documents from the Atomic Energy Commission and other agencies the Advisory Committee appointed by President Clinton in January 1994 found that nearly 4 000 human radiation experiments most involving very low doses of radioactive tracers were sponsored by the federal government between 1944 1974 This book documents these findings to provide a fascinating if not disturbing reminder of both the shocking standards for human experimentation and the practice of government secrecy in recent history Carried out at the height of the Cold War experiments included feeding radioactive cereal to teenagers at a school for the mentally retarded irradiating the testicles of prison inmates injecting plutonium into hospital patients and intentional releases of radiation into the environment The book places these experiments within their historical context and a review of the relevant government policies and ethics standards at the time is included The analysis is then applied to contemporary research on human subjects The book concludes with a discussion of the Committee s key findings and a set of recommendations for changes in institutional review boards the interpretation of ethics rules and policies the conduct of research involving military personnel the oversight and accountability for ethical violations compensation for research injuries and balancing national securities interests with the rights of the public This compelling volume will prove to be a landmark in the development of standards for human experimentation Ethicists public health professionals and those interested in the history of medicine and Cold War history will be intrigued by the findings in this volume Publisher description LoC
