Atlantis Myth Or Memory

Atlantis Myth Or Memory:

Atlantis Mark Weiman, 1996 Memories of Antiquity Madeleine Scherer, Jakob Schneider, Benjamin Eldon Stevens, 2025-11-07 While the study of antiquity and its reception has been an important subject of study for centuries theoretical approaches to the ways in which reception operates in practice have proven difficult to establish Classical works images and narratives have a long and wide ranging reception history and in tracing this history scholarship has long emphasized that classical receptions shift over time Given the enduring and indeed expanding popularity of the classics more recent approaches have started to explore those complex receptions as matters of mnemohistory or cultural histories of memory Memories of Antiquity builds on this view of classical reception as a mnemohistory by collecting a set of global and transcultural examples in which the study of classical reception is usefully conceptualised through the lens of memory The collection is fundamentally interdisciplinary featuring investigations of literature pop art photography film and even an actual play podcast The broad scope of the volume creates a multitude of comparative points on how ancient stories and myths are reframed and remembered in different contexts opening a dialogue for further inquiries into this rich and complex area of research After the Flood, Cataclysm and the Forgotten Origins of Civilization Alistair Ravenhurst, 2025-12-24 A forgotten chapter of human history may be hiding in plain sight not in secret vaults but in the oldest stories ever told Across continents civilizations preserved the same haunting pattern a world that once thrived a sudden catastrophe of water fire and darkness and scattered survivors forced to rebuild from fragments This book follows the trail where geology and myth overlap drowned coastlines abrupt climate shocks and the global memory of endings that refuse to die Through a gripping evidence minded narrative it explores how cataclysms can erase entire landscapes scramble the archaeological record and leave behind only the most durable artifact of all story From the flood that swallowed the first world to legends of burning skies and long dark ages these traditions begin to look less like fantasy and more like compressed memory warnings carried forward across millennia Blending deep time climate history collapse dynamics and the logic of lost coastlines this book asks a provocative question what if civilization has restarted more than once Powerful cinematic and relentlessly thought provoking it reframes prehistory as a cycle of rise rupture and return and leaves you looking at ancient ruins sacred time and humanity's future with new eyes The Poetics of Memory Thomas Wägenbaur, 1998 The contributors to this volume share a Poetics of Memory as the constant shift between representation in different kinds of cultural archives and its performance in various acts of cultural recollection They are engaged in four main projects of mnemonic inquiry The first deals with the history of the subject and the moment of recollection The second opens the scope of an aesthetic reading of literary texts towards cultural memory in general The third examines the nature of literary memory as such The final group of contributors delimits the literary text towards intertextuality and electronic hypertext which challenges but also confirms the proposed Poetics of Memory Archaeoastronomy, 1980 12,000 BC Jerry Kroth, 2024-10-01 Professor Jerry Kroth's book 12 000 BC Two Extinction Level Events We Know Nothing About explores the often popularized ancient apocalypse narratives so frequently depicted on Netflix and YouTube Kroth s approach however is systematic in that it examines the science behind these controversies without tiptoeing into fringe or conspiracy literature to establish its credentials For example mainstream archeology alleges the ice age came to its conclusion in a gradual manner while the spread of Homo sapiens throughout the world resulted in the extinction of 35 species of megafauna mainly as a result of humans hunting down large animals Woolly Mammoths Mastodons Giant Sloths and others went extinct because of this hunter overkill hypothesis so says the mainstream A counter argument to this view is that two major cosmic cataclysms occurred first a Miyake solar storm that caused radiocarbon levels to rise across the planet This occurred 14 300 years ago It was one of the largest solar storms ever to hit the planet far greater than the Carrington Event of 1859 and it caused massive melting of the ice caps and flooding incineration of vegetation fused rocks etc Dr Kroth presents a great deal of experimental data to support this theory backed up by interviews with scientists from around the world and not from anthropology or archeology at all but from solar physicists and other physical scientists A rapid increase in global temperatures resulted but as a result of the soot rising from the cataclysm global temperatures again fell precipitously eventually ushering in the Younger Dryas a period of unstable rising and falling global temperatures Then 12 300 years ago a second cataclysmic event happened A giant comet fragmented over the Northern Hemisphere destroying Lake Agassiz and causing massive flooding across America It similarly exacerbated the extinctions that were taking place The physical evidence nanodiamonds fused rocks radiocarbon levels in fossilized tree rings all point to the reality of these planetary shocks In Part II of 12 000 BC Dr Kroth examines the impact these events had on humanity Besides wiping out the Clovis people of North America recent DNA studies show that the human race also experienced a precipitous decline at this time Kroth then takes up issues of antediluvian human societies and looks at the evidence supporting the presence of advanced human societies before these cataclysms happened Gobelki Tepe Atlantis the Yonaguni Monuments Gulang Padang His conclusion from a review of this literature in contradiction to Graham Hancock s position is that advanced human societies did not in fact exist Stone Age peoples yes but some advanced mathematically sophisticated antediluvian culture does not succeed in passing through Kroth s filter The evidence is just not there Perhaps if Atlantis one day is discovered this theory will be revised but as it stands the earliest sophisticated and advanced human culture still remains that of Sumeria of only 6 000 years ago Part III of the text presents a uniquely controversial hypothesis to explain the rapid and exponential rise of human society In a mere 6 000 years human culture and technology developed so rapidly that conventional evolutionary biology and mainstream anthropology have enormous difficulty trying to explain how that all happened Why did it take Homo sapiens 196 500 years to invent a wheel Why was it 194 600 years before he got the idea of cultivating potatoes Kroth provides a provocative explanation for these anomalies and vicissitudes of human cultural advance

Beyond Words Paula B. Slater, Barbara Sinor, 1990 The Artificial Kingdom

Celeste Olalquiaga,1998 The author of Megalopolis Contemporary Cultural Sensibilities now offers an arresting exploration of the complex notions of artifice and memory at work in the creations collection and appreciation of kitsch Illustrations
