edition has been restructured to be a companion textbook for students undertaking architectural practice classes while also fulfilling the specific knowledge needs of interns and emerging professionals. It supplements information from the professional handbook with new content aimed at those setting out in the architectural profession and starting to navigate their careers. New topics covered in this new edition include path to licensure, firm identity, professional development, strategic planning and integrated project delivery. Whether you want to work at a top firm, strike out on your own or start the next up and coming team, the business of architecture is a critical factor in your success. This book brings the fundamentals together to give you a one-stop resource for learning the reality of architectural practice. Learn the architect's legal and ethical responsibilities. Understand the processes of starting and running your own firm. Develop, manage and deliver projects on time and on budget. Become familiar with standard industry agreements and contracts. Few architects were drawn to the profession by dreams of writing agreements and negotiating contracts, but those who excel at these everyday essential tasks impact their practice in innumerable ways. The Architecture Student's Handbook of Professional Practice provides access to the nuts and bolts that keep a firm alive, stable and financially sound. The Portfolio Lesley Lokko, Katerina Ruedi Ray, Igor Marjanovic, 2007-06-07. The portfolio is the single most important part of every architectural student's education. This book provides a complete guide to preparing, compiling and presenting this crucial element of the architecture course. The experienced author team gives practical advice for the creation of the portfolio, covering issues of size, storage, layout and order. They go on to guide the student through the various forms a portfolio can take: the Electronic Portfolio, the Academic Portfolio and the Professional Portfolio, suggesting different approaches and different media to use in order to create the strongest portfolio possible. The team also presents the best examples from international student portfolios to show the reader their recommendations in practice. The book has a companion website where full-colour representations of the best examples of portfolio work can be accessed. Also in the Seriously Useful Guides series: The Dissertation: The Critical Practical Experience What an Architecture Student Should Know Jadwiga Krupinska, 2014-06-05. It's not just you. Every architecture student is initially confused by architecture school, an education so different that it doesn't compare to anything else. A student's joy at being chosen in stiff competition with many other applicants can turn to doubt when he or she struggles to understand the logic of the specific teaching method. Testimony from several schools of design and architecture in different countries indicates that many students feel disoriented and uncertain. This book will help you understand and be aware of specific working methods at architecture schools and in the critique process, so you'll feel oriented and confident. How to cope with uncertainty in the design process. How to develop the ability to synthesize the complexity of architecture in terms of function, durability and beauty. This book is about how architects learn to cope with uncertainty and strive to master complexity. Special attention is given to criticism, which is an essential part of the design process. The author, a recipient of several educational awards, has written this book for architecture students and teachers to describe how each student can adopt the architect s working method Key concepts are defined throughout and references at the end of each chapter will point you to further reading so you can delve into topics you find particularly interesting Jadwiga Krupinska is professor emerita at the School of Architecture of the Royal Institute of Technology KTH in Stockholm Sweden

Rethinking the Crit Patrick Flynn, Maureen O'Connor, Mark Price, Miriam Dunn, 2022-09-06 Assessment in architecture and creative arts schools has traditionally adopted a one size fits all approach by using the crit where students pin up their work make a presentation and receive verbal feedback in front of peers and academic staff In addition to increasing stress and inhibiting learning which may impact more depending on gender and ethnicity the adversarial structure of the crit reinforces power imbalances and thereby ultimately contributes to the reproduction of dominant cultural paradigms This book critically examines the pedagogical theory underlying this approach discusses recent critiques of this approach and the reality of the crit is examined through analysis of practice The book explores the challenges for education and describes how changes to feedback in education can shape the future of architecture and the creative arts
