Environments of Inequality: Crises, Conflicts, Comparisons Olaf Kaltmeier, Ann-Kathrin Volmer, Mario Peters, 2024-12-06

Multiple environmental crises and persistent patterns of intersecting inequalities are major global concerns. This edited volume contributes to a better understanding of environments of inequality by examining their various formations and expressions from the colonial period to the present with a strong but not exclusive focus on the Americas. The nine case studies especially reflect on the interrelationship between social inequality and the natural environment. The authors address crises, conflicts, and comparisons of inequalities from various disciplinary and regional perspectives. The volume has three thematic sections: first, conflicts and contests over resources and territory; second, crises of environmental politics; and third, constructions of inequality discourses of disruption. Drawing on ongoing innovative research projects, the chapters in this volume discuss highly relevant issues and show that intersectionality is key to understanding environmental inequalities.

Natural Resource-Based Conflicts in Rural Zimbabwe Joshua Matanzima, Patience Chadambuka, Kirk

Helliker, 2024-08-02. This book investigates the range of conflicts over land and other natural resources in contemporary Zimbabwe, considering the different forms these conflicts take and the ensuing outcomes. Zimbabwe is a country rich in natural resources including land, wildlife, minerals, and water resources. These resources are integral to the formal and informal livelihoods of most Zimbabweans as well as supporting many key industries. Wildlife, land, and water resources are also embedded in indigenous knowledge systems, religious beliefs, and rituals in many rural communities, forming an important part of people's identity and sense of belonging. However, this book demonstrates the ways in which rural communities are being denied access to these resources and being displaced by extractive companies and the government. Their response is often to turn to violence to try to reclaim their lands. Drawing on original empirical research from different conflicts across Zimbabwe, the book also considers the issue in the context of problems such as climate change, human-wildlife conflicts, and politico-economic crises. This book will be useful to policy makers, students, conservationists, and academics across the fields of sociology, human geography, development, political science, and environment studies.

Cultures of Crisis in Southeast Europe Klaus Roth, Asker Kartari, 2017. The history of the Balkan Peninsula of the last two centuries is marked by deep transformations and upheavals. The emergence and disappearance of states, ethnic conflicts, and wars, changes of political systems, economic crises, migration movements, and natural disasters are the more visible of such upheavals. Most of them have been experienced as deep crises that forced people to adapt to often radically new situations. All too often, crisis management became a permanent way of life. The included essays focus on the cultures of crisis and on the reactions of societies and individuals to them, on their impact on everyday life, on people's strategies of coping, on the processes of adaptation, and on people's attitudes.
