Algorithms to Live By by Brian Christian, Tom Griffiths, 2016-04-19

An exploration of how computer algorithms can be applied to our everyday lives to solve common decision-making problems and illuminate the workings of the human mind. What should we do or leave undone in a day or a lifetime? How much messiness should we accept? What balance of the new and familiar is the most fulfilling? These may seem like uniquely human quandaries, but they are not. Computers like us confront limited space and time, so computer scientists have been grappling with similar problems for decades. And the solutions they've found have much to teach us. In a dazzlingly interdisciplinary work, Brian Christian and Tom Griffiths show how algorithms developed for computers also untangle very human questions. They explain how to have better hunches and when to leave things to chance, how to deal with overwhelming choices, and how best to connect with others. From finding a spouse to finding a parking spot from organizing one's inbox to peering into the future Algorithms to Live By transforms the wisdom of computer science into strategies for human living

The Judgement of the Eye Jürgen Weber, 2002-07-02 The author Jürgen Weber brings together the results of various disciplines and his own research and experience as a sculptor and painter and stitches together an exciting new theory of perception of form In doing so Weber who also has a scientific background explores the fascinating question of what additional information the thing that is seen conveys How do we tell the difference between a cheerful and a gloomy face Why do we see that a bud will open shortly Why do we find some phenomena to be dangerous and others to be desirable These questions have not yet been investigated in a systematic and scientific way although they are of vital importance to our behaviour No doubt this book represents a unique and timely contribution to the many disciplines concerned with the wonders of perception

The Individual in the Making Edwin Asbury Kirkpatrick, 1911 In this volume it is proposed to discuss the development of individual human minds chiefly from the subjective point of view The educator like the mariner needs a chart by which he may guide the child into the most favoring channels and past the most serious dangers that are found in each stage of development from childhood to maturity The author believes that the descriptions and suggestions herein given lead toward the truth The ideas as expressed are not given as final truth for the guidance of psychologists and educators but as a formulation of facts and principles to be corrected and completed by further scientific investigations and tested by practical educational experience It is hoped that the work is sufficiently concrete and specific to be of interest and value to parents and teachers who have not received much training in psychology It will be of most value however to those who have had a good deal of experience with children
