Black Image:

The Black Image in the New Deal Nicholas Natanson, 1992 Between 1935 and 1942 photographers for the New Deal's Resettlement Administration Farm Security Administration FSA captured in powerfully moving images the travail of the Great Depression and the ways of a people confronting radical social change Those who speak of the special achievement of FSA photography usually have in mind such white icons as Dorothea Lange's Migrant Mother or Walker Evans's Alabama sharecroppers But some six thousand printed images a tenth of FSA's total included black figures or their dwellings At last Nicholas Natanson reveals both the innovative treatment of African Americans in FSA photographs and the agency's highly problematic use of these images once they had been created While mono-dimensional treatments of blacks were common in public and private photography of the period such FSA photographers as Ben Shahn Arthur Rothstein and Jack Delano were well informed concerning racial problems and approached blacks in a manner that avoided stereotypes right wing as well as left wing In addition rather than focusing exclusively on FSA approved agency projects involving blacks politically the safest course they boldly addressed wider social and cultural themes This study employs a variety of methodological tools to explore the political and administrative forces that worked against documentary coverage of particularly sensitive racial issues

Moreover Natanson shows that those who drew on the FSA photo files for newspapers magazines books and exhibitions often entirely omitted images of black people and their environment or used devices such as cropping and captioning to diminish the true range of the FSA photographers vision

Feminist Criticism and Social Change (RLE Feminist Theory) Deborah Rosenfelt, Judith Newton, 2013-05-20
This lively and controversial collection of essays sets out to theorize and practice a materialist feminist criticism of literature and culture Such a criticism is based on the view that the material conditions in which men and women live are central to an understanding of culture and society It emphasises the relation of gender to other categories of analysis such as class and race and considers the connection between ideology and cultural practice and the ways in which all relations of power change with changing social and economic conditions By presenting a wide range of work by major feminist scholars this anthology in effect defines as well as illustrates the materialist feminist tendency in current literary criticism The essays in the first part of the book examine race ideology and the literary canon and explore the ways in which other critical discourse such as those of deconstruction and French feminism might be useful to a feminist and materialist criticism The second part of the book contains examples of such criticism in practice with studies of individual works writers and ideas An introduction by the editors situates the collected essays in relation both to one another and to a shared materialist feminist project Feminist Criticism and Social Change demonstrates the important contribution of materialist feminist criticism to our understanding of literature and society and fulfils a crucial need among those concerned with gender and its relation to criticism
