Free to Say No? Eric L. Jenkins, 2012-12-18 For centuries Augustine's theory of free will has been used to explain why God is not the author of evil and humans are morally responsible for sin. Yet when he embraced the doctrines of unconditional election and operative grace, Augustine began modifying his theory of free will. His final works claim his evolved notion of free will remained consistent with his early view, but this claim has provoked significant debate. Some scholars take him at his word, interpreting his teachings on free will in light of his later predestination teachings. Others reject his claim of continuity and warn of great inconsistencies between his early and later works. Few have undertaken a thorough study of Augustine's works to compare his early notion of free will with his later theory of predestination. Free To Say No is a detailed study of Augustine's work that presents clear evidence in Augustine's own words for a significant discontinuity between his early and later theories, especially the disappearance of the will's freedom to say No, and offers some fascinating insights as to why Augustine proposed such drastic changes.

Augustine John M. Rist, 1994 This major work constitutes a significant attempt to provide a detailed and accurate account of the character and effects of Augustine's thought as a whole. It describes the transformation of Greco-Roman philosophy into the version that was to become the most influential in the history of Western thought. Augustine weighed some of the major themes of classical philosophy and ancient culture against the truth he found in the Bible and Catholic tradition and reformulated these in Christian dress.

Plundering Egypt G. P. Wagenfuhr, 2016-03-30 Christian engagement with economics tends to baptize preexisting sociopolitical perspectives, thereby assuming a predetermined metaphysical narrative. What happens when the story of the development of economics, told from an anthropological and sociological perspective, is juxtaposed with a biblical theology that focuses primarily on relationships? Wagenfuhr tests a theological method grounded in three kinds of relationships: Creator-creature estrangement and Reconciler-reconciled, by comparing these with a fourth relationship, the economic. He argues that economic relationships and the worlds they create throughout history are the fruit of relationships estranged from God. Much theology has committed itself to a metaphysics rooted in the reality of economics and has told a metaphysical story that tends to legitimize current sociopolitical realities. Wagenfuhr argues that reconciliation with God is entirely subversive to economic relationships. No economic relationship or system is established or justified by God, but neither does he reject them. Instead, the love of God in Christ speaks the economic language of a people with a critical edge, leading to loving subversion of any and all economic relationships. This book argues for a robust theology that offers the post-Christendom church a renewed sense of the total scale of God's mission of reconciliation.

The Message of Love Patrick Mitchel, 2019-09-19 Love, such a deceptively simple and popular little word. It is universally agreed that we need love to live and flourish as human beings, and yet within our contemporary culture there are numerous confusing, competing, and evolving ideas about what love is. There are few greater subjects in Christian theology than love, yet it is a surprisingly complex and challenging concept to understand, let alone live.

out faithfully Patrick Mitchel's conviction is that Christians need to be thinking about and practising love in compelling and authentic ways Our task is not only to articulate what love is but also to show to the world what true Christian love looks like in practice The only thing that counts is faith expressing itself through love Gal 5 6 NIV Mitchel's exposition explores love in the Old Testament how the love of God is supremely revealed in the mission and death of Jesus Christ love in the life and teaching of Jesus and the church's calling to be a community of love He helps us to grasp afresh the breadth depth scope and radically counter cultural nature of the Bible's teaching on love With a fully integrated study guide suitable for both individuals and groups The Message of Love will help you to see how the Bible's unified teaching on this vital theme can impact your life today

Manic Love Poems 1989 Karen Hunt, 2011-06-01 Description This book of poetry is the only creative thing I have ever produced The poems are simple childlike and not very profound but they are from the heart and mind of a young girl who fell in love with someone she shouldn't have fallen in love with to quote The Buzzcocks But what I thought was love was probably the start of my illness bi polar Although the highs I get seem to feel very much like love to me I hope they inspire people to believe in something good even though the world is full of bad things Karen Hunt About the Author My name is Karen Hunt I live in Bury in the North of England I have lived here all my life except for a brief period of 5 years as a child when I lived in Blackpool They say I have bi polar or manic depression and I suppose I must accept this diagnosis I entered hell via a bad relationship in my early twenties I exited it via a brief innocent friendship with a cousin in 1984 he brought me back to a belief in God and love and life and was the inspiration behind this book of poetry

Rewriting the Thirties Keith Williams, Steven Matthews, 2014-09-25 Rewriting the Thirties questions the myth of the anti modernist decade Conversely the editors argue it is a symptomatic transitional phase between modern and post modern writing and politics at a time of cultural and technological change The text reconsiders some of the leading writers of the period in the light of recent theoretical developments through essays on the ambivalent assimilation of Modernist influences among proletarian and canonical novelists including James Barke and George Orwell and among poets including Auden MacNeice Swingler and Bunting and in the work of feminist writers Vera Brittain and Winifred Holtby In this substantial remapping the complexity and scope of literary critical debate at the time is discussed in relation to theatrical innovation audience attitudes to the mass medium of modernity cinema the poetics of suburbia consumerism and national ideology as well as the discursive strategies of British and American documentarism
