Altrurian Romance:

The Altrurian Romances William Dean Howells, 1968 The Altrurian Romances 1968 of William Dean Howells consists of three utopias A traveller from Altruria 1894 The Letters of an Altrurian Traveller 1893-94 and Through the Eye of the Needle 1907 The Altrurian traveller Aristed Homos visits the United States in 1892 and stays there for about a year and a half visiting a New Hampshire mountain resort hotel New York City and Chicago These romances record Homos's criticism of the social political and economic conditions of the industrial capitalistic and plutocratic America The Commonwealth of Altruria has attained the Utopian dream of brotherly equality through literal application of the principles of liberty equality and fraternity Howells uses Homos as his spokesman in such a way that Homos's account of his country implies every insulting criticism of America By letting the Altrurian Homos and his American wife describe the conditions of Altruria where complete social political and economic equality has been attained Homos effectively draws the people's attention to his call for social justice through return to the ideals of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution Especially through the strict observance of the principles of liberty equality and fraternity University of Ryukyus Repository The Altrurian Romances William Dean Howells, 1968 The Altrurian Romances 1968 of William Dean Howells consists of three utopias A traveller from Altruria 1894 The Letters of an Altrurian Traveller 1893-94 and Through the Eye of the Needle 1907 The Altrurian traveller Aristed Homos visits the United States in 1892 and stays there for about a year and a half visiting a New Hampshire mountain resort hotel New York City and Chicago These romances record Homos's criticism of the social political and economic conditions of the industrial capitalistic and plutocratic America The Commonwealth of Altruria has attained the Utopian dream of brotherly equality through literal application of the principles of liberty equality and fraternity Howells uses Homos as his spokesman in such a way that Homos's account of his country implies every insulting criticism of America By letting the Altrurian Homos and his American wife describe the conditions of Altruria where complete social political and economic equality has been attained Homos effectively draws the people's attention to his call for social justice through return to the ideals of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution Especially through the strict observance of the principles of liberty equality and fraternity University of Ryukyus Repository A Traveler from Altruria William Dean Howells, 1894 A Traveler from Altruria William Dean Howells, 1996-03-15 First published in 1894 A Traveler from Altruria tells the story of a foreign visitor who presents the concept of a Utopian society Howells hoped his novel would allow readers to confront the inconsistencies imperfections and injustices of Gilded Age America Reprinted here as a historical document the text is supported with a comprehensive introduction chronology and questions for consideration The Social Self Joseph Alkana, 2021-05-11 American literary history of the nineteenth century as a conflict between individualistic writers and a conformist society In The Social Self Joseph Alkana argues that such a dichotomy misrepresents the views of many authors Sudden changes caused by the industrial revolution urban development increased immigration and regional conflicts were threatening to fragment the community and such writers as Nathaniel Hawthorne William James and William Dean Howells were deeply concerned about social cohesion Alkana persuasively reintroduces Common Sense philosophy and Jamesian psychology as ways to understand how the nineteenth century self society dilemma developed All three writers believed that introspection was the proper path to the discovery of truth They also felt Alkana argues that such discoveries had to be validated by society In these sophisticated readings of Hawthorne s short stories and The Scarlet Letter Howells s utopian Altrurian romances and James s The Principles of Psychology it becomes obvious that characters who isolate themselves from the community do so at considerable psychological risk The Social Self links these writers interest in contemporary psychology to their concern for history and society Alkana s argument that nineteenth century expressions of individualism were defensive responses to the fear of social chaos radically revises the traditional narrative of American literary culture

Gender and the Writer's Imagination Mary Suzanne Schriber, 2014-07-15 The concept of woman as having a distinctive nature and requiring a separate sphere of activity from that of man was pervasive in the thinking of nineteenth century Americans So dominant was this horizon of expectations for woman that the imaginations of our finest novelists were often subverted even as they attempted to expand the possibilities for women through their fiction Selecting five American writers James Fenimore Cooper Nathaniel Hawthorne William Dean Howells Henry James and Edith Wharton Schriber traces the impact of cultural expectations for woman on the art of the novel from the early nineteenth century through the advent of Modernism The novels of Cooper and Hawthorne exemplify the male imagination at work before the concept of woman s nature and sphere became burning issues as they did later in the century Howells while attempting to expand woman s sphere in his fiction in response to feminist challenges in fact demonstrates the recalcitrance of a priori ideas James provoked rather than subverted by the ideology of gender was able to bend the culture s myopia to his own artistic purposes Wharton s novels in contrast document the female imagination seeking aesthetic solutions to the problems of women rather than to woman as problem Wharton constructs versions of female experience that were either invisible or anathema to her male counterparts Schriber s discussion centers on those points in each text at which the culture s horizon of expectations drives the decisions and choices of the artist sometimes to the benefit and sometimes at the expense of craft Making full use of gender as a category of literary analysis she recovers the meanings intended by the texts for audiences of their own time and distinguishes those meanings from their significance for modern readers Original in its methodology and insights Gender and the Writer's Imagination provides a model for future literary studies A Traveler from Altruria; Romance William Dean Howells, 2024-03-04 Reproduction of the original The publishing house Megali specialises in reproducing historical works in large print to make reading easier for people with impaired vision A Traveller from Altruria William Dean Howells, 1894 Through the Eye of the Needle, 1907 Utopia & Cosmopolis Thomas Peyser, 1998 A discussion of Henry James and other utopian writers Charlotte Perkins Gilman Edward Bellamy and William Dean Howells and how the

Traveler from Altruria: Romance William Dean Howells,2013-05-27 I confess that with all my curiosity to meet an Altrurian I was in no hospitable mood toward the traveler when he finally presented himself pursuant to the letter of advice sent me by the friend who introduced him It would be easy enough to take care of him in the hotel I had merely to engage a room for him and have the clerk tell him his money was not good if he tried to pay for anything But I had swung fairly into my story its people were about me all the time I dwelt amid its events and places and I did not see how I could welcome my guest among them or abandon them for him Still when he actually arrived and I took his hand as he stepped from the train I found it less difficult to say that I was glad to see him than I expected In fact I was glad for I could not look upon his face without feeling a glow of kindness for him I had not the least trouble in identifying him for he was so unlike all the Americans who dismounted from the train with him and who all looked hot worried and anxious He was a man no longer young but in what we call the heyday of life when our own people are so absorbed in making provision for the future that they may be said not to live in the present at all This Altrurian s whole countenance and especially his quiet gentle eyes expressed a vast contemporaneity with bounds of leisure removed to the end of time or at least this was the effect of something in them which I am obliged to report in rather fantastic terms He was above the middle height and he carried himself vigorously His face was sunburned or sea burned where it was not bearded and although I knew from my friend s letter that he was a man of learning and distinction in his own country I should never have supposed him a person of scholarly life he was so far from sicklied over with anything like the pale cast of thought When he took the hand I offered him in my half hearted welcome he gave it a grasp that decided me to confine our daily greetings to something much less muscular A Traveler from Altruria William Dean
