

REBELLIOUS JUKEBOX

SKIN out of SKUNK ANANSIE picks the records that changed her life . . .

[1] DOONIE WARRICK: "The Essential Collection" (BMG LP)

"This is actually one of the newest of her records, but it's got all the classics on it. There's two CDs, one with all the Burt Bacharach songs and another with all new stuff on it which I haven't listened to yet. The songs and melodies remind me of my youth—when I was growing up, she played Doonie Warlock all the time. It was the soundtrack to my youth. I particularly like 'Mindrops Keep Falling On My Head', her, her, her."
—Doonie Warlock covers a lot of the same ground, but I prefer Doonie's version of songs like 'Walk On By' and 'Prayer'. I put this album on when I'm hawking and shout at the top of my voice, 'WALK ON BY! WALK ON BY!'

Doonie Warlock

[2] NICK DRAKE: "Pink Moon" (Island LP)

"Nick Drake recorded two albums, but the record company rejected his stuff and then he recorded this one in his front room. He was by himself and it was the best thing he'd ever done. I hear he killed himself. You can really hear in his voice that he's sad enough. It's an album I play when I'm depressed or when I just want to shut out, light a load of candles and wallow in it. It feel like shit and cry all night. I actually think people who are sad would love this record, really. I think it's an easy option—but that's another topic for another day."

[3] LED ZEPPELIN: "Kashmir" (Globe/Geffa LP)

"I wish I could meet my manager six or seven years ago, see what he had out of the house and listen to Led Zeppele. We would listen to 'Kashmir' all the time as an example of a brilliant production. It was always quite into Led Zeppele, but I was more of a Rolling Stones and Bluey Balfours. The production on 'Kashmir' is so good that it still sounds amazing. And it's good if you're a Led Zeppele fan, it's a good album to have and play the whole set out often as well."

[4] CIBO MATO: "Vive La Woman" (Sire LP)

"BASCILLO, these are Japanese girls who live in Toronto. There's a picture of the room they recorded the album in on its cover and it's the trashiest, messiest place you've ever seen. They have these half-Chinese, half-Japanese accents and it's down a strip hog vein, but every song on the album is about food. I didn't notice at first. There's a song on called 'Beef and Pork Rice'. 'You going to cook for your mother and 30 members of her family.' A friend of mine who presents a TV show in Toronto called 'Much Music' introduced me to them. I fell in love with the record about seven and a half years ago. It's over since. I find it really funny. It reminds me of being in Toronto. It was the first time I'd been to Canada—we did a gig and loads of people showed up, which was great. I was like, 'It looks all right.' 'Bopped' was a song which everybody was, got Cibo Mato on the tour but stereo and went totally mad, throwing myself around the place. I loved it a bit that day."

[5] NIRVANNA: "Nevermind" (Geffa LP)

"This has got to be in everybody's Top 10. When it came out, it was really revolutionary, like the first Rage Against The Machine album, or 'Nothing Baby', really big albums which everyone steps off now, but everybody loved 'em when they came out. I'd be lying if I said I didn't love 'Nevermind'. 'Smells Like Teen Spirit' is the one I play the best, although that was the first track I heard of theirs."
—*There's a great story of how we got signed connected to this. The A&R guy at One World called at the time was a major Nirvana fan. That's an understatement. Anyway, our second gig was on the city's Rock Club and we did an amazing, really party depressed. The A&R guy was going to come to the gig because he was too upset, but he was talked into it. He really didn't want to be there and was totally not into it. He was really nervous, but we played back his mind of thinking about Kurt, which he took as a signal that he ought to sign us. Which he did. Mind you, we were P***ing good that night."*

[6] BETTY DAVIS: "Betty Davis" (Virgin Experience LP)

"This is my favourite ever singer. She was going out with Sly Stone, then she dumped him for Miles Davis. She sings in this really sexual way, she goes on about whipping you with her turquoise chain with the 'Hotter Cities on Back' tape cassette. And she has this almost anatomical scene in her video. Lookin', I didn't hear her until I'd already found my own style, otherwise I would have definitely tried to sound like her. It was too late when I did hear her, and I couldn't have sounded like her if I tried."

"She was as sexy as P***, stunning-looking and really dirty. For a woman to be doing that kind of music let alone that was quite hard. Again, my, she has just disappeared, no one knows whether she's alive or dead. Knowing Miles, he probably said 'he's the devil'."

[7] TRACY CHAPMAN: "Fast Car" (From the Elektra LP "Tracy Chapman")

"She had an album out when I was absolutely huge, but I don't really like it. 'Fast Car' off the album is important to me. It's about doing what you want to do and fulfilling your dreams. It made me think I could do anything I wanted to, I had just left a job to sing and I didn't know how to write the songs and this song was saying, 'Just go and do it.' It sounds clichéd, but it don't give a P***. It's the truth. Also, she was a black woman and that obviously meant something to me, too."

[8] MICHAEL NYMAN: "The Piano" (Virgin LP)

"It's one my favourite films. The film really moved me, the way she expressed her emotions through the music. She couldn't speak, but she built an expressive piano player that you know how she was feeling by the way she was playing. The whole film was beautifully done. It has soundtrack, but proper ones—not where they're just put a load of songs together to sell an album. We were on the 'Mission Impossible' soundtrack, like, why? I hate to be the hand that feeds me, but why? I think Tom Cruise liked the song."

"But slow strings and orchestras, I used to play the violin when I was a teenager. That's the kind of soundtrack I like, you know, when the characters are having sex, the music that plays behind it. I really like the Ennio Morricone stuff as well."

[9] STEVE WONDER: "Innovations" (Mercury LP)

"The whole world loves this album. Although this is my favourite album, the song, 'Rhythm in the Sky', means a lot to me. It's always been special for me. One of the first TV shows we ever did was 'The White Room', and Stevie Wonder was on the same show singing with Deane. I was completely amazed. Stevie Wonder's Stevie P***ing Wonder! Our first time on TV and here I am sitting in front of Stevie P***ing Wonder. During the soundtrack, he did 'Rhythm in the Sky'. I was one went quiet and it was so beautiful, I had tears in my eyes. It was like he was singing it to me. When they did it on the show, it was absolutely, really shit for me. It was never going to be as good as the first time. It was like the first time you have good sex. And from there it's all downhill!"

[10] RADFOHEAD: "The Bends" (Parlophone LP)

"I love choosing albums, don't I? It's weird, because Radfohead are hated like we are. They don't really seem to get a lot of respect but they do really well and a lot of people like them. But they get slagged off. I think this is an album of absolutely fantastic songs. I fell in love to 'High And Dry'. It's not in love any more, though. I still love the song—the pain is actually quite pleasurable."
