Black Women, Writing and Identity Carole Boyce-Davies, 2002-09-11 Black Women Writing and Identity is an exciting work by one of the most imaginative and acute writers around. The book explores a complex and fascinating set of interrelated issues establishing the significance of such wide-ranging subjects as re-mapping, re-naming and cultural crossings, tourist ideologies and playful world-travelling, gender, heritage and identity, African women's writing and resistance to domination, marginality, effacement and decentering, gender, language and the politics of location. Carole Boyce-Davies is at the forefront of attempts to broaden the discourse surrounding the representation of and by black women and women of colour. Black Women Writing and Identity represents an extraordinary achievement in this field, taking our understanding of identity, location and representation to new levels.

Experimental Subjectivities in Global Black Women's Writing Sheldon George, Jean Wyatt, 2024-08-22 In what innovative ways do novels by diasporic Black women writers experiment with the representation of Black subjectivity? This collection explores the inventiveness of contemporary Black women writers: Black British, African, Caribbean, African American, who remake traditional understandings of blackness. As the title word 'experimental' signals, these essays foreground the narrative form and stylistic innovations of the black-authored novels they analyze. They also show how these experiments with form mirror the novels' convention-breaking experiments with reimagining Black female subjectivities. While each novel, of course, represents the complexities of diasporic experiences differently, some issues emerge that are broadly shared, not just within a regional group but across geographical borders. One feature of the collection is a comparative look at such linking themes across borders: under the rubrics, a return to precolonial systems of belief, reinventions of mothering, relational subjectivities, memory, history and haunting, and posthumanist revaluations. These themes take different shapes across the multitude of diverse cultures studied in this book. But together they establish a pan-global imaginative practice.

Rise Up Singing presents the stories and reflections of such beloved and respected artists, journalists and authors as Alice Walker, Faith Ringgold, Marita Golden, Martha Southgate, Tananarive Due, Maya Angelou, Gwendolyn Brooks, Deborah Roberts and Rita Dove.

Specifying Susan Willis, 1987 Focusing on Zola Neale Hurston, Paule Marshall, Toni Morrison, Alice Walker and Toni Cade Bambara, this book explores both the ways in which black women's fictions have been shaped by the history of the United States and the ways in which they intervene in that history. She sees the transition from an agrarian to an urban society as the critical moment of that history and argues that writings by black women articulate that change in their content as well as form.
