Blanc De Chine:

Blanc de Chine Rose Kerr, John Ayers, 2002-03-21 Dehua porcelain or Blanc de Chine as it is known in the West is pure ivory white porcelain made at the Dehua kilns in the southern Chinese province of Fujian. It rose to international significance in the 17th century and inspired aristocratic patronage in the development of European porcelain. Its popularity at home and abroad continued and the k Blanc de Chine Robert H. Blumenfeld, 2002 Beginning in the mid thirteenth century the kilns of Dehua capital of the Fujian Province in southeast China began producing brilliant white porcelain pieces the likes of which had never been seen before. Today blanc de Chine pieces are some of the most sought after collectibles in the world of Chinese art their aesthetic appeal lying in their stark shapes and color and their impossibly delicate glasslike glaze. Blanc De Chine weaves together the most engaging authoritative story of this precious art ever told. For the connoisseur author Robert Blumenfeld presents dazzling photographs and important research findings from around the world. For the novice collector he details the differences between true blanc de Chine and other less distinguished white wares. For the Asian art enthusiast he provides a rich historical account of the evolution of the form and the character and technical mastery that distinguish its finest pieces. A major contribution to the field Blanc De Chine will be treasured by all who appreciate the breathtaking beauty and fascinating tradition of this exquisite art. Blanc de Chine, 1969* Blanc de Chine S. Marchant & Son, 2006 Celebrates blanc de chine porcelain from several important collections that featured in a selling exhibition at S Marchant and Son London in November 2006 and features an introduction to the subject Blanc de Chine John Ayers, Yuan Bingling, 2002 Scholarly look at this unique whiteware porcelain known as Dehua ware in China and Blanc de Chine in the West Blanc de Chine Ton Becker, 2019 This book contains the private collection of Blanc de Chine monochrome porcelain from Dehua collected by Ton and Mies Becker both retired medical specialists and collectors of Asian Art. For many centuries the Chinese and Western elite adored the monochrome white porcelain wares made in Dehua a district in the province of Fujian bordering the south easterly coast of China. The appeal being based on the combination of beautiful crafting and an aesthetic creamy glaze. It is this appeal which the authors experienced as an irresistible charm and the urge to start collecting this particular porcelain. A number of short essays has been included not intended as an all embracing academic account but rather as introductory notes for those who develop an interest in collecting Blanc de Chine porcelain. These include considerations about the whiteness of Blanc de Chine the manufacture and main design categories of Blanc de Chine and the export to Europe. The catalogue of the collection is organised according to the main design categories and consists of photographs of each object highlighting details if desired a brief description of each item and explanatory notes to provide information about particular items that may need additional clarification as well as the date of acquisition and provenance. Blanc de Chine John Ayers, 2002 Blanc de Chine P.
