Customer Relationship Management and Customer Retention Ama Achiia Kankam Boadu, 2019-11-11 Research Paper postgraduate from the year 2019 in the subject Business economics Customer Relationship Management CRM grade 1 5 Kwame Nkrumah University of Science and Technology language English abstract Customer Relationship Management CRM practices are business strategies designed to reduce costs and increase profitability by solidifying customer loyalty. With intense competition among insurance companies in Ghana, this study sought to assess Customer Relationship Management practices and Customer Retention in NSIA Insurance. The study was conducted to identify critical factors necessary for customer retention in carrying out customer relationship management practices in the selected insurance company and to develop effective customer relationship management practices to manage customer retention for sustainability within the insurance industry using NSIA Insurance as a case study. Well-structured questionnaires and face-to-face interviews were the methods adopted for the investigation of the study. A sample size of 40 respondents was considered; they were made up of customers and the staff who are fully involved in customer relationship management of the insurance company. Data collected from the completed questionnaires and the interviews were grouped into frequency tables and expressed in percentages. The researcher relied on the SPSS in interpreting the collected data. The study shows that even though NSIA insurance has policies on customer relationship management practices, these policies are not carried out fully to accomplish the ultimate goal of customer retention. The study recommends that for the insurance company to command an adequate number of loyal customers, NSIA Insurance should consistently improve on its quality of service to address the preference of the customers and consider the five service quality constructs of reliability, assurance, tangibility, empathy, and responsiveness.

The Importance of Customer Relationship Management in Business Marketing Robert Stolt, 2010-12 Essay from the year 2010 in the subject Business economics Customer Relationship Management CRM grade A University of St Andrews language English abstract An increased competitive situation on the basis of similar products, scarce resources, advancements in technology, and changes in customer behaviour are forcing companies to consider a sustained and efficient structure of the provision of their services over and above a strong customer orientation. Customer relationship management (CRM) as a part of strategic marketing can be seen as the emerging management paradigm with which companies seek to respond to these changing market conditions. Through the adoption of a CRM system, companies are able to collect and evaluate specific knowledge about their customers in a systematic way, hence primarily improving customer service and customer loyalty. Until recently, companies ignored the importance of this, which led to a loss of customers and thus a decrease in profitability. Beyond that the fact that companies neglect their customers is oftentimes intensified by a lack of appropriate equipment tools or project management methods Estimates by some market observers even state that nearly 70 80% of all CRM projects fail or do not attain the intended target Nevertheless CRM can be an effective and profitable cross functional management tool for attaining a lasting exchange with customers across all their points of contact and access with a personalised treatment of the most beneficial customers in order to ascertain customer retention and the effectiveness of marketing initiatives The adoption of an effective customer relationship management within the field of business to business B2B marketing is therefore essential as companies have to be exceedingly responsive to individual customer preferences equally requiring a differentiated sales approach in order to raise customer profitability The objective of this paper is to provide a clear overview
