Balance Of Power In East Asia:

Balance of Power T. V. Paul, James J. Wirtz, Michel Fortmann, 2004 Since the sudden disappearance of the Soviet Union many scholars have argued that the balance of power theory is losing its relevance This text examines this viewpoint as well as looking at systematic factors that may hinder or favour the return of balance of power politics

The Balance of Power in East Asia Michael Leifer, 1986-07-02 Based on lectures delivered at the Royal United Services Institute for Defence Studies

The US-Japan Alliance David Arase, Tsuneo Akaha, 2013-01-11 Japan's use of Soft power in its international politics is as yet understudied Soft power presents as many challenges as promises This book explores the way Japan uses soft power in its relationship with the US its Asian neighbours and Europe and aims to contribute to a deeper understanding of the role of soft power in international relations Hard power on the other hand is more tangible and has received far greater scholarly scrutiny than soft power However as this collection makes clear hard power has its limitations and counterproductive consequences as an instrument of policy This book makes it clear that hard power alone will not provide Japan with the peace and security it desires A smart balancing or mixture of hard and soft power is required Is Japan up to this challenge While this book cannot give a definitive answer to this question the excellent line up of contributors present their best analyses of the effectiveness of Japan's current attempt at balancing the two components of national power in meeting its bilateral and multilateral security challenges The US Japan Alliance is suitable for upper undergraduates postgraduates and academics in International Politics Political Science Security studies and Japanese studies Winner of The Masayoshi Ohira Memorial Special Prize 2011

The Changing Balance of Power in East Asia Brian Bridges, 1996

Looking for Balance Steve Chan, 2013-07-15 Debate surrounding China's rise and the prospects of its possible challenge to America's preeminence has focused on two questions whether the United States should contain or engage China and whether the rise of Chinese power has inclined other East Asian states to balance against Beijing by alignment with the United States or ramping up their military expenditures By drawing on alternative theoretic approaches most especially balance of threat theory political economic theory and theories of regime survival and economic interdependence Steve Chan is able to create an explanation of regional developments that differs widely from the traditional strategic vision of national interest He concludes that China's primary aim is not to match U S military might or the foreign policy influence that flows from that power and that its neighbors are not balancing against its rising power because in today's guns versus butter fiscal reality balancing policies would entail forfeiting possible gains that can accrue from cooperation economic growth and the application of GDP to nonmilitary ends Instead most East Asian countries have collectively pivoted to a strategy of elite legitimacy and regime survival based on economic performance

The Future Balance of Power in East Asia Paul Dibb, 2008 An historic shift is occurring in the global balance This century will see the assertion of Asia as the locus of world power and the relative decline of Europe The United States will remain the dominant power for a long time perhaps until the middle of the century But the world will progressively become a multipolar world with three Asian great powers China Japan and India and one Eurasian power Russia competing with the United States The central question of the next 20 years will be whether this new correlation of forces in Asia is a peaceful one or one of competition and conflict Asias future will be determined by whether there is a cooperative and largely peaceful interaction between China Japan India Russia and the United States or whether there will be a much more unstable struggle for influence and power in the years ahead New pressures are emerging that could change all this climate change the struggle for scarce resources particularly energy ageing populations and the fact that economic growth is inevitably leading to greater expenditure on arms and nuclear weapons There are other serious problems looming in Asia outstanding territorial claims deep seated historical antipathies combined with rising nationalisms ethnic and religious clashes and the fact that globalisation is not benefiting all countries or all regions or people within a country equally
