Non-Proliferation, Arms Control and Disarmament Division,1996 Confidence building as an approach to international security management has traditionally focused on developing agreements featuring well known confidence building measures as opposed to the activity of confidence building itself This report begins with a critical review of traditional confidence building ideas which highlights some problems that continue to undermine conventional treatments of confidence building It then discusses in some detail the essential elements that comprise the transformation view of confidence building That view shifts attention away from operational measures towards the processes associated with their development and application According to that view confidence building is a distinct activity undertaken by policy makers with the minimum intention of improving some aspects of a traditionally antagonistic security relationship through security policy co ordination and co operation It requires interaction among officials and experts from participating states when conditions are supportive of change
