

Algebraic Specification

- An algebra is specified by giving a sort (this is the name of a set), and a set of signatures (this is a set of function specifications).
- For example, think of a simple algebra for arithmetic with addition and subtraction:
 $\langle S, \{+ : S \times S \rightarrow S, - : S \times S \rightarrow S\} \rangle$
- The specification of an algebra is an abstract entity. We can create and associate a particular algebra with the specification by associating a set (called the carrier set) with the sort and a specific function with each operator symbol in the signatures.
- Properties of any particular algebra (or model of an algebra) are specified by giving axioms such as $-(+(x,y),y)=x$
