Re-Enactment and Factual Discourse in a Biopic Mirjam Moegele, 2010-04 Seminar paper from the year 2009 in the subject Communications Movies and Television grade 2.0 University of Copenhagen Film und Medienwissenschaft course Between Documentary and Fiction language English abstract In this essay I want to focus on the integration of factual discourse in its different forms in a movie and the effects they are creating for the viewer First of all it is interesting to look where we can situate the biographical movie within fiction and historical truthfulness I want to show that re enactment of originals and the application of fictional facts is animating the viewer to reflect differently on the represented images Here it is interesting to observe the story line of Jack Rollins including the effects of aesthetics and documentary consciousness The movie is playing to a huge account with aesthetics but also with the cultural knowledge of people knowing something about

Bob Dylan and the previous documentaries Don't look back cinema verite and No direction home It is interesting to observe how the viewer can actually differentiate between factual and fictional discourse and to which degree he might believe what is presented to him The question can also be framed into the whole aim of the movie which might explain the choice of certain media techniques In which ways is factual discourse integrated in the movie I'm not there Which documentary techniques underline the purpose for authenticity How does the movie play with the concept of documentary consciousness What does the re enactment of factual discourse and material together with fictional elements achieve compared to a classical documentary

Figures of Heresy Andrew Dix,Jonathan Taylor,2006 God is dead Nietzsche famously declared in The Gay Science but this book will investigate God's surprising persistence and resurrection in the works of even the most seemingly atheistic of writers who continue to deploy Judaic and Christian narratives and tropes even as they radically rewrite them in the face of new cultural political and scientific imperatives Contributors explore the range power and implication of Christian and Jewish heresies in canonical Anglo American writers including Edgar Allan Poe Thomas Hardy Robert Louis Stevenson T S Eliot John Steinbeck and Jim Crace as well as in some less familiar texts the Mormon Scriptures of Joseph Smith and various Victorian rewritings of the Book of Esther A polemical essay by Michelene Wandor reflects on conceptions of Jewishness which she finds in need of heretical renewal Valentine Cunningham's provocative introduction argues that the acts of literary writing and reading are necessarily heretical A coda to the book Between Heresy and Superstition takes as its motto Thomas Huxley's observation in 1881 that It is the customary fate of new truths to begin as heresies and to end as superstitions Contributions offer readers a rare opportunity of witnessing an extended academic exchange exploring the process by which former heresies may indeed risk ossification as new kinds of doctrinal conformity Bryan Cheyette's critique of the Christian Albums of Bob Dylan is answered by Kevin Mills's essay which uncovers heretical possibility even in this most seemingly orthodox part of Dylan's work The revitalisation of heresy in literary interpretations as well as in our religious thinking forms the guiding objective of this exciting critical book
