TASK. Submit your answers through email.

Consider yourself as a teacher, make an activity that strikes appropriately in the 4 core skills of Language Arts.

CLASSROOM ACTIVITY

READING	Skimming is an important skill because it allows the learner to preview the text. Knowing the main idea of a text is extremely beneficial before students begin to read closely, just as knowing the topic of a conversation beforehand helps us be better listeners. A broad understanding of the subject will prepare them to read for comprehension and allow them to read faster.
WRITING	Create a book jacket. This project is ideal for students in elementary through high school who prefer to draw and design rather than write. It also gives them a behind-the-scenes look at publishing and marketing!
SPEAKING	Debates: Give each student a piece of paper with the words "agree" and "disagree" written on one side and "disagree" written on the other. Read aloud a contentious statement, and have each student hold up their paper, indicating whether they agree or disagree. Select one student from each side to explain their point of view and participate in a brief debate.
LISTENING	Telephone. This is one of the book's oldest games, but it's still a lot of fun! Make a circle with your students. The "phone call" will begin with one person whispering a secret message into the ear of the person next to him/her. That person then whispers it to the person after them, and so on. The listener only has one chance to hear the message correctly; whatever is heard must be passed on. When the message has gone all the way around the circle, the last person repeats it aloud. It is usually a jumbled-up version of the original message.
