

Performance Measurement and Evaluation Framework

The Planning & Budget Committee oversees NASAA's organizational performance measurement practices.

Why does NASAA conduct performance measurement and evaluation?

NASAA engages in performance measurement for a variety of reasons, including our desire to:

- Demonstrate transparency and accountability for being a well-managed organization. Most professional associations track basic metrics relating to their membership, budget and operations. NASAA does this through our performance metrics dashboard.
- Inform action planning and the design, delivery and improvement of services to state arts agencies. Feedback on member needs shapes the priorities in NASAA's action plans and helps us originate new services. We also conduct targeted program evaluations of specific programs/functions. These evaluations help us attune our offerings to member needs.
- Provide pathways for member input in shaping NASAA's work. Ongoing consultation not only gives NASAA's work good aim, it contributes to a sense of member ownership. In addition to the substance of what we learn from members, the larger process of asking state arts agencies for feedback is important to members and is part of NASAA's organizational culture. Annual field interviews conducted by the Nominating Committee embody this practice.
- Address National Endowment for the Arts expectations. Every three years NASAA applies to the NEA for our National Services (Partnership Agreement) grant. The adjudication criteria for that award include consideration of, "metrics and/or other relevant information used to monitor the organization's progress."

What principles inform NASAA's approach?

There are many schools of thought on what makes a good performance metric. NASAA generally aims for indicators that are relevant to member/stakeholder satisfaction and are reasonably efficient to collect, to minimize survey burden on state arts agencies. This is
