Aboriginal People And Other Canadians Shaping New Relationships:

Aboriginal People and Other Canadians Martin Thornton, Roy Todd, 2001-12-06 In Aboriginal People and Other Canadians leading scholars discuss key issues in Native studies including social exclusion marginalization and identity justice equality and gender self help and empowerment in Aboriginal communities and in the cities and methodological and historiographical representations of social relationships This insightful analysis gauges whether the last decade of the twentieth century was a time of constructive transition and whether new patterns of relations emerged following challenges by First Nations to colonial legacy Published in English

Indigenous Women's Theatre in Canada Sarah MacKenzie, 2020-11-15T00:00:00Z Despite a recent increase in the productivity and popularity of Indigenous playwrights in Canada most critical and academic attention has been devoted to the work of male dramatists leaving female writers on the margins In Indigenous Women's Theatre in Canada Sarah MacKenzie addresses this critical gap by focusing on plays by Indigenous women written and produced in the socio cultural milieu of twentieth and twenty first century Canada Closely analyzing dramatic texts by Monique Mojica Marie Clements and Yvette Nolan MacKenzie explores representations of gendered colonialist violence in order to determine the varying ways in which these representations are employed subversively and informatively by Indigenous women These plays provide an avenue for individual and potential cultural healing by deconstructing some of the harmful ideological work performed by colonial misrepresentations of Indigeneity and demonstrate the strength and persistence of Indigenous women offering a space in which decolonial futurisms can be envisioned In this unique work MacKenzie suggests that colonialist misrepresentations of Indigenous women have served to perpetuate demeaning stereotypes justifying devaluation of and violence against Indigenous women Most significantly however she argues that resistant representations in Indigenous women's dramatic writing and production work in direct opposition to such representational and manifest violence

Aboriginal People and Other Canadians D. N. Collins, 2001 Discusses a wide variety of issues in Native studies including social exclusion marginalization and identity justice equality and gender self help and empowerment in Aboriginal communities and in the cities and methodological and historiographical representations of social relationships

Intellectual Property Law and Access to Medicines Srividhya Ragavan, Amaka Vanni, 2021-07-28 The history of patent harmonization is a story of dynamic actors whose interactions with established structures shaped the patent regime From the inception of the trade regime to include intellectual property IP rights to the present this book documents the role of different sets of actors states transnational business corporations or civil society groups and their influence on the structures such as national and international agreements organizations and private entities that have caused changes to healthcare and access to medication Presenting the debates over patents trade and the Agreement on Trade Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights TRIPS Agreement as it galvanized non state and nonbusiness actors the book highlights how an alternative framing and understanding of pharmaceutical patent rights emerged as a public issue instead of a trade or IP issue The book thus offers an important analysis of the legal and political dynamics through which the contest for access to lifesaving medication has been and will continue to be fought In addition to academics working in the areas of international law development and public health this book will also be of interest to policy makers state actors and others with relevant concerns working in nongovernmental and international organizations Screening Culture Heather Norris

Nicholson,2003-01-01 The lives of Indigenous peoples have long been framed for the outside world by others cinematic gaze But during the past thirty years North America s Indigenous image makers particularly in Canada have used the changing technologies of film video television and computer to present their peoples histories identities and perspectives This edited collection of essays conversations and interviews combines Indigenous and non Indigenous voices as it sets changing representations of Indigenous people on screen against broader socio cultural ideological and economic considerations

King, John Winterdyk, 1999 The composition of the Canadian populace has changed dramatically since the 1970s Recent demographic data indicate that the number of minority groups has burgeoned Aside from obvious social and cultural changes confronting these groups in their assimilation and integration as Canadians they also represent varying challenges for our criminal justice system Furthermore our notion of what constitutes minority groups has also evolved over recent years Where once the criminal justice system saw only Canada's First Nation people as its primary minority group it must today contend with the broader range of groups In fact very few studies have examined the treatment of other minority groups within the Canadian criminal justice system and very few criminology or criminal justice textbooks have reflected these changes This reader fills the void in the existing literature
