Aboriginal Policing A Canadian Perspective:

Aboriginal Policing Bryan David Cummins, John Steckley, 2003 Targeted primarily at the two year Police Foundations Program with potential in university and university college criminal justice and criminology programs This book provides a comprehensive overview of aboriginal policing including native policing traditions a history of the impact of policing on Canada s First Nations contemporary issues and native policing arrangements experiences of native police officers and future trends in the field

International Perspectives on Police Education and Training Perry Stanislas, 2013-10-30 Training and education constitutes the backbone of a significant amount of police activity and expenditure in developing the most important resources involved in policing work It also involves an array of actors and agencies such as educational institutions which have a long and important relationship with police organizations This book examines the role of education and training in the development of police in the contemporary world Bringing together specialist scholars and practitioners from around the world the book examines training methods in the UK the USA Australia Canada China France Hungary India the Netherlands St Lucia and Sweden The book throws light on important aspects of public service policing and new areas of public and private provision through the lens of training and development It will be of interest to policing scholars and those involved in professional and organizational development worldwide

The Colonial Problem Lisa Monchalin, 2016-03-08 Indigenous peoples are vastly overrepresented in the Canadian criminal justice system The Canadian government has framed this disproportionate victimization and criminalization as being an Indian problem In The Colonial Problem Lisa Monchalin challenges the myth of the Indian problem and encourages readers to view the crimes and injustices affecting Indigenous peoples from a more culturally aware position She analyzes the consequences of assimilation policies dishonoured treaty agreements manipulative legislation and systematic racism arguing that the overrepresentation of Indigenous peoples in the Canadian criminal justice system is not an Indian problem but a colonial one

Race and Racialization Tania Das Gupta, 2007 This provocative volume will influence the way people think of race and racialization It provides a thorough examination of these complex and intriguing subjects with historical comparative and international contributions Edited as a theoretically strong cohesive whole this book unites a remarkable ensemble of academic thinkers and writers from a diversity of backgrounds Themes of ethnocentrism cultural genocide conquest and colonization disease and pandemics slavery and the social construction of racism run throughout

Canadian Books in Print. Author and Title Index, 1975

Police and Government Relations Margaret E. Beare, Tonita Murray, 2007-01-01 Questions of police governance accountability and independence have been subjected to thorough research before That the issue still draws critical attention more than twenty years after the McDonald Commission of Inquiry into Certain Activities of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police suggests that understanding and a resolution to the issue still elude us Despite the modifications to police practice that the Charter of Rights and Freedoms has brought there is still concern over the degree of independence the police exercise and debate over where the line between legitimate government direction of the police and illegitimate political interference should be drawn. Police and Government Relations explores the question of police governance and independence from a number of different points of view. Editors Margaret E Beare and Tonita Murray offer multi-disciplinary comparative and case study methodologies written by scholars from law, political science, and criminology to illustrate the diversity of opinion that exists on the topic and to explore how the operating tension between police independence and democratic governance and accountability has played out both in Canada and other countries. This book does not attempt to find final answers; its goal is to provide a framework for a continuing discussion that may lead to helpful and workable recommendations for the future. It serves as an academic and intellectual contribution to an important matter of public policy.

Contributors: Margaret E Beare, Alan Borovoy, Gordon Christie, Susan Eng, Dianne Martin, Tonita Murray, Kim Murray, W. Wesley Pue, Kent Roach, Robert Simmonds, Lorne Sossin, Philip Stenning, Toni Williams.

Appearance Bias and Crime Bonnie Berry, 2019-04-11. Relying on experts in criminology and sociology, Appearance Bias and Crime describes the role of bias against citizens based on their physical appearance. From the point of suspicion to the decisions to arrest, convict, sentence, and apply the death penalty, crime control agents are influenced by the appearance of offenders; moreover, victims of crime are held blameworthy depending on their physical appearance. The editor and contributing authors discuss timely topics such as Black Lives Matter, terrorism, LGBTQ appearance, human trafficking, Indigenous appearance, the disabled, and the attractive versus unattractive among us. Demographic traits such as race, gender, age, and social class influence physical appearance and thus judgments about criminal involvement and victimization. This volume describes the social movements relevant to appearance bias, recommends legislative and policy changes, offers practical advice to social control agencies on how to reduce appearance bias, and proposes a new sub-discipline of appearance criminology.

Ministère Du Solliciteur Général Du Canada : Perspectives Canada. Solicitor General Canada, 1995.

Race and Racism in 21st-Century Canada B. Singh, Bolaria, Sean P. Hier, 2007-05. This is the book that many of us in the field of race scholarship have been waiting for.

Minelle Mahtani, University of Toronto Scarborough.

Aboriginal Policing Update Canada. Aboriginal Policing Directorate, 2007.

Introduction to Policing in Canada Jayne Seagrave, 1997.

Canadian Books in Print, 2003.

First Nations, First Dogs Bryan David Cummins, 2002. Yet not all knowledge of these breeds has been lost with them. Legends, journals, artwork, and photos remain to document these dogs and their characteristics, and they are featured here with the aim of showing the profound impact they had on First Nations cultures and survival. Dogs were used as pack animals long before and after the arrival of the horse. They hunted alongside Natives and starved with them too if the hunt was unsuccessful or game scarce. In desperate times, they were the food of last resort. Dogs also figured prominently in song, story, and ceremony.

Aboriginal Self-government in Canada John H. Hylton, 1999. A collection of essays by various authors on the topic of Aboriginal self government      Our Society Paul Ubaldo Angelini,2003      Canadian Political Structure and Public Administration Geoffrey J. Booth,Dennis M. Roughley,2001      Aboriginal Policing ,1994 The purpose of the present report is to document and analyse the state of the art in Aboriginal policing research Its aim is to provide the general parameters for a fresh understanding of substantive problems and issues in the area of Aboriginal policing in Canada Towards this end the discussion draws on a wide range of policing research and related materials and attempts to give some coherence and shape to the relevant literature by distilling the best of research and commentary in a form that is current comprehensive and policy focused The approach to this objective is guided by Barth s 1981 theories of social process In particular the report stresses how Aboriginal concepts of order control the police and policing are shaped by interaction rather than simply derived from predetermined cultural standards and frameworks This perspective and theme is applied throughout the report and is especially relevant for the discussion of culture conflict and the development of Aboriginal policing policy and programs in a community context Thus the report also looks beyond considerations of specific research problems and results to the broader issue of the management of research information In this context the report is intended to provide a framework for discussing and identifying future policy and program related research needs and initiatives in the area of Aboriginal policing Intro p 2
