Aboriginal Settlement Patterns in the Little Tennessee River Valley R. P. Stephen Davis, 1990 Nantahala River, The: A History & Guide Lance Holland, 2020 Most everyone who comes to western North Carolina has heard of the Nantahala but few know its history Long before it was a mecca for rafters and thrill seekers it was traveled by naturalists and explorers from William Bartram to John C Fr mont After the Cherokees were driven out settlers arrived and began exporting the wealth of the mountains in the form of timber talc and minerals Tourists arrived on the Western Turnpike soon after and the railroad brought more around 1890 The federal government began purchasing land for the new Nantahala National Forest and the need for aluminum to fight World War II precipitated the construction of Fontana Lake and Nantahala Lake Local author Lance Holland has crafted an enlightening and entertaining narrative history of this unique region Agrarian Landscapes in Transition Charles Redman, David R. Foster, 2008-07-18 Agrarian transformations represent the most pervasive alteration of the Earth s terrestrial environment over the past 10 000 years Using North American examples the book traces compares and contrasts the introduction spread and abandonment of agriculture at six U S long term ecological research LTER sites Indeed lessons from these examples apply more broadly to inform socio ecological studies land use options conservation strategies restoration initiatives and urban planning Archaeological Adaptation C. Clifford Boyd, 2024-01-12 Archaeological Adaptation Case Studies of Cultural Transformation from the Southeast and Caribbean honors the work of longtime University of Tennessee anthropology professor Gerald Schroedl whose career encompassed fieldwork and research in both prehistoric and historic archaeology Schroedl s early career often focused its analysis on Mississippian and Cherokee sites while his later years found him delving into historic archaeology in the Caribbean Revisiting these touchstones of Schroedl s work editor C Clifford Boyd here gathers essays around the disciplinary theme of documentation and analysis of change Contributors study excavations in Tennessee Virginia South Carolina wider southern Appalachia and the Caribbean providing insight into Native American African American and English civilizations Artifacts architecture human and structural remains and climatic and environmental factors yield insight into changing settlement patterns tribal practices material culture economic and political power relations and health and nutrition A preface tracing Schroedl s career and an afterword addressing developments in archaeological theory round out the volume Barely Surviving or More than Enough? Maaïke Groot, Daphne Lentjes, Jørn Zeiler, 2013-10-14 How people produced or acquired their food in the past is one of the main questions in archaeology Everyone needs food to survive so the ways in which people managed to acquire it forms the very basis of human existence Farming was key to the rise of human sedentarism Once farming moved beyond subsistence and regularly produced a surplus it supported the development of specialisation speeded up the development of socio economic as well as social complexity the rise of towns and the development of city states In short studying food production is of critical importance in understanding how societies developed Environmental archaeology often studies the direct remains of food or food processing and is therefore well suited to address this topic. What is more a wealth of new data has become available in this field of research in recent years. This allows synthesising research with a regional and diachronic approach. Indeed most of the papers in this volume offer studies on subsistence and surplus production with a wide geographical perspective. The research areas vary considerably ranging from the American Mid South to Turkey. The range in time periods is just as wide from c 7000 BC to the 16th century AD. Topics covered include foraging strategies the combination of domestic and wild food resources in the Neolithic water supply crop specialisation the effect of the Roman occupation on animal husbandry town country relationships and the monastic economy. With this collection of papers and the theoretical framework presented in the introductory chapter we wish to demonstrate that the topic of subsistence and surplus production remains of interest and promises to generate more exciting research in the future.

Virginia Federal Correctional Institution, Near Town of Pennington Gap, Lee County, 1996 Archaic Societies Thomas E. Emerson, Dale L. McElrath, Andrew C. Fortier, 2012-02-01 Sweeping and detailed this long awaited volume is an indispensable guide to the Archaic period across the midcontinent. Archaeologists throughout the region share the latest excavation results and analytical perspectives to reveal and reinterpret the worlds of those Native peoples who lived there for some 9 000 years up to about 3 000 years ago. Of particular concern is the establishment of relative and absolute chronologies for the Archaic period the relationships between the artifacts left behind and the peoples who made and used them and the changing interactions between cultures climate and landscape. Archaeologists offer useful up to date overviews of Archaic societies assessment of stratigraphic sequences and detailed discussions of finds and interpretations from the Mississippi and Ohio river regions and the Great Lakes. Comprehensive and accessible this landmark book is a must for anyone wanting to understand a crucial but little understood period in North America's prehistory.
