Building A Scholarship Of Assessment:

Building a Scholarship of Assessment Trudy W. Banta and Associates, 2002-10-02 In this book leading experts in the field examine the current state of assessment practice and scholarship explore what the future holds for assessment and offer guidance to help educators meet these new challenges The contributors root assessment squarely in several related disciplines to provide an overview of assessment practice and scholarship that will prove useful to both the seasoned educator and those new to assessment practice Ultimately Building a Scholarship of Assessment will help convince skeptics who still believe outcomes assessment is a fad and will soon fade away that this is an interdisciplinary area with deep roots and an exciting future

Building Writing Center Assessments That Matter Ellen Schendel, William J. Macauley, Jr., 2012-10-16 No less than other divisions of the college or university contemporary writing centers find themselves within a galaxy of competing questions and demands that relate to assessment questions and demands that usually embed priorities from outside the purview of the writing center itself Writing centers are used to certain kinds of assessment both quantitative and qualitative but are often unprepared to address larger institutional or societal issues In Building Writing Center Assessments that Matter Schendel and Macauley start from the kinds of assessment strengths already in place in writing centers and they build a framework that can help writing centers satisfy local needs and put them in useful dialogue with the larger needs of their institutions while staying rooted in writing assessment theory The authors begin from the position that tutoring writers is already an assessment activity and that good assessment practice rooted in the work of Adler Kassner O Neill Moore and Huot already reflects the values of writing center theory and practice They offer examples of assessments developed in local contexts and of how assessment data built within those contexts can powerfully inform decisions and shape the futures of local writing centers With additional contributions by Neal Lerner Brian Huot and Nicole Caswell and with a strong commitment to honoring on site local needs the volume does not advocate a one size fits all answer But like the modeling often used in a writing consultation examples here illustrate how important assessment principles have been applied in a range of local contexts Ultimately Building Writing Assessments that Matter describes a theory stance toward assessment for writing centers that honors the uniqueness of the writing center context and examples of assessment in action that are concrete manageable portable and adaptable

Assessing Organizational Performance in Higher Education Barbara A. Miller, 2007 The book provides a full complement of assessment technologies that enable leaders to measure and evaluate performance using qualitative and quantitative performance indicators and reference points in each of seven areas of organizational performance While these technologies are not new applying them in a comprehensive assessment of the performance of both academic and administrative organization in higher education is a true innovation Assessing Organizational Performance in Higher Education defines four types of assessment user groups each of which has unique interest in organizational performance This offers a new perspective on who uses performance results and why they use them These varied groups emphasize that assessment results must be tailored to fit the needs of specific groups that one size fits all does not apply in assessment An assessment process must be robust and capable of delivering the right information at the right time to the right user group
