Naval Strategy in Northeast Asia Duk-ki Kim, 2000 Over the past decade Northeast Asia has been dominated by quite significant strategic change which is ongoing and brings with it many uncertainties naval capabilities in Northwest Asia are instrumental in promoting maritime security interests helping to build a stable security environment through active participation in regional naval co operation This landmark book explores the region s maritime peace and stability and examines in depth the strategic military and apolitical issues that underpin any effort to develop maritime co operation

ASEAN's Cooperative Security Enterprise H. Katsumata, 2010-01-20 Katsumata demonstrates that something interesting is taking place inside the ASEAN Regional Forum ARF He shows that an association of minor powers in Southeast Asia is promoting its cooperative security norm and influencing the policies of its external partners Thus the ARF is one of the important pathways to regional security

Theorizing Southeast Asian Relations Amitav Acharya, Richard Stubbs, 2013-10-31 The recent proliferation of theories of international relations has transformed analyses of Southeast Asia s international affairs A new generation of scholars has promoted a lively and illuminating debate which has seen the traditional realist neorealist approach which continues to hold centre stage challenged by constructivist analyses In turn constructivists have found themselves under fire from an array of competing approaches This collection engages this emerging debate It underscores the point that Southeast Asia is now an important site for applying new theories of international relations It also demonstrates that theoretical frameworks originally developed in North America and Europe have to be adapted to the specific circumstances found in places like Southeast Asia and that this process can enrich theory building The chapters in this book focus on the realist neorealist constructivist English School and critical approaches The resulting debate helps to shed light on ways of analysing Southeast Asian relations as well as on the evolution of these key theoretical frameworks This book was published as a special issue of The Pacific Review

Asia in the New Millennium Lai To Lee, Amitav Acharya, 2004 Some 120 participants attended the inaugural Congress of the Asian Political and International Studies Association APISA in Singapore on 28-30 November 2003. Asians from universities and institutes in many countries accounted for about 70 per cent of the participants. The First Congress had been two years in the making. In November 2001, 30 academics from research institutes, think tanks, and universities introduced the idea of launching an Asian-based academic organisation dedicated to the advancement of political and international studies. It was the general consensus of the meeting that Asian scholars had been marginalised from the decision-making processes of the Western-based associations of a similar nature. Asian schools of thought had been stifled as a consequence of the American hegemony in the social sciences and that the state of Asian studies in general was underdeveloped. In the light of these concerns, the APISA was established. Drawn from academia and think tanks from across Asia and the Pacific, the political and security specialists, sociologists, historians, and economists exchanged ideas and charted new intellectual terrain on the theme 'Asia in the New Millennium: Development, Democracy, and Security'. The keynote speaker at the Congress was Dr Surin Pitsuwan, former Foreign Minister of Thailand and Member of the Commission for Human Security, who focused on the need to pursue prominence in Asian scholarship. Panels at the APISA Congress transcended disciplinary contours, national and regional boundaries, and historical confines. The panel themes ranged from globalisation, identity, and community in Asia to electronic government and theory and modernity. Offering more regional lenses were panels that discussed understanding and explaining Asia-Pacific security and the welfare state in Southeast Asia, China and her neighbours. Among the many panels that engaged other disciplines were the discussions on state vs market, the historical contributions in the panel on defining Southeast Asia as a region, and sociological inclinations in the panel on culture, politics, and cooperation.
