Building Effective Mastery Learning Schools:

Building Effective Mastery Learning Schools James H. Block, Helen E. Eftim, Robert Bounds Burns, 1989

Designing the Learning-centred School Clive Dimmock, 2005-12 This book is the first of its kind to combine a detailed comprehensive description of the learning centred school with an examination of a cross cultural perspective Shaping the Culture of Schooling Cheryl Taylor Desmond, 1996-01-01 Focusing on the cultural history of the origins of outcome based education OBE this book investigates the social and economic culture of Johnson City New York schools OBE has often been proclaimed the salvation for ailing American schools and has spread to thousands of school districts throughout the United States The reform has also been the lightning rod for fierce challenges from community members who oppose OBE s dismantling of the bell shaped curve and its promotion of secular humanism The author uncovers the messy business of school change and its deep roots in the values of the local community and economy Grounding the story historically and theoretically Desmond analyzes the reshaping of the Johnson City schools from a production mill for blue collar workers to a development center of technologically minded middle class well educated citizens She argues that the heart of successful synergistic school reform lies in the consensus that children have unlimited learning capacity and a long term moral leadership that is committed to caring reciprocal relationships of power Developing Grading and Reporting Systems for Student Learning Thomas R. Guskey, Jane M. Bailey, 2024-07-24 Teachers parents students administrators and community members all agree that we need better grading and reporting systems Often these systems are inadequate because they are part of a tradition that can go unexamined and unquestioned for years Here is the first serious look at the issue written to provide all those involved especially teachers with a coherent and thoughtful framework Guskey and Bailey offer four pillars of successful grading and reporting systems Communication is the primary goal of grading and reporting Grading and reporting are integral parts of the instructional process Good reporting is based on good evidence Creating change in grading and reporting requires creating a multi faceted reporting system Written to help readers develop a deeper and more reflective understanding of the various aspects of the subject Thomas Guskey and Jane Bailey s work brings organization and clarity to a murky and disagreement filled topic Here is a practical and essential guide for teachers administrators or anyone concerned with understanding and implementing best practices in grading and reporting systems

Organizational, Instructional, and Curricular Strategies to Support the Implementation of Unified, Coordinated, and Inclusive Schools Judy A. Schrag, 1994 The Elementary School Journal, 1917 Mastery Learning Suzanne Stetson Kulas, 1992 Outcome-based Approaches in High School Mathematics Debra Marie Ingram, 1996 Schools for All Learners Renfro C. Manning, 1994 Creating Effective Schools Wilbur B. Brookover, 1982 School Effectiveness and Improvement Joseph Bashi, Zehava Sass, 1992 The Third International Congress for School Effectiveness held at the Van Leer Jerusalem Institute was an additional link in the chain of efforts forged in the late 1960s to improve schools Reports on reform efforts are received from every quarter. An impressive body of knowledge has accumulated concerning processes of change and improvement in the schools. This raises many questions in the area of policy and research regarding the implementation, dissemination, and sustainability of effect of the various projects, as well as the evaluation criteria of the intervention programs. These were the questions under discussion at the Congress for School Effectiveness in 1990. They will continue to concern educators and researchers in the field for years to come. The contributors in this volume rank among the leading authorities and practitioners in the field.

Restructuring Schooling for Individual Students William M. Bechtol, Juanita S. Sorenson, 1993. Current research in education reveals a system that consistently delivers disappointing results. Recent reforms developed in response to the Nation at Risk report have in many cases been so restrictive that they have actually aggravated the problem, increasing retention and drop out rates and producing even more high school graduates who must take remedial courses in college. The authors of this timely book believe that one of the root causes of this educational decline is the failure of traditional methods and curricula to meet the needs of an increasingly diverse and multicultural school population. Their solution: Restructure public schools to accommodate the variety of student learning aptitudes present in today's classroom and give students a greater opportunity to be successful. In these pages you will find a number of ways to accomplish these goals. And you will discover a variety of innovative programs that are succeeding in public schools right now, including programs from eight model schools across the country that show many of these ideas in action. Throughout the book, the authors focus on options for restructuring that are practical and inexpensive to implement in any school system. They present detailed descriptions of classroom strategies and curriculum approaches that will be helpful to pre-service and in-service teachers and to administrators interested in the many restructuring options available. Specific strategies for effective teaching are discussed, including the direct teach method, mastery learning, cooperative learning, the whole language approach to teaching reading and writing, and early intervention reading programs. The authors also present a complete learning how to learn curriculum that emphasizes process as well as content. Other important topics covered in depth include teaching and learning styles, management and motivation, parent-school-community partnerships, and staff development. A sample staff development sequence is included in Chapter 10.

K-8 Instructional Methods Allan C. Ornstein, Richard I. Sinatra, 2004-12. This general methods text presents the preservice teacher educator with relevant instructional methods, strategies, and techniques to help develop an understanding of how literacy instruction impacts the entire K-8 curriculum. Students' success in school, particularly in these days of vigorous academic standards and high stakes testing, is related to their abilities to read, comprehend, analyze, and reflect through critical thinking, writing, and computer interactions. The text is organized in a realistic and easy-to-use format, offering ideas for integrating theory with practice to improve the teaching and learning process. The authors demonstrate solid instructional practices that emphasize reading and related literacy development through the content areas in each grade K-8. The text also examines the impact that reading and literacy development have had upon diversity and multiculturalism special learners at risk and economically disadvantaged students and technology and computers

Educación, 1989 Classroom Methods and Strategies for Teaching at the Secondary Level Georges Duquette, 1997 The primary focus of this volume is the classroom methodology course in teacher education programs but it can also serve as a resource text for experienced classroom teachers who wish to improve their own strategies or for students taking undergraduate education courses Independent Study Operations Manual California. Department of Education, 2000 Conversations with Leading Educators from Educational Leadership Ronald S. Brandt, 1989 Increasing Teacher Effectiveness Lorin W. Anderson, 1991 Research on increasing teacher effectiveness is presented in this book Chapter 1 outlines a framework for investigating and understanding teacher effectiveness with attention to the following components teacher and student characteristics curriculum classroom environment and management teaching and learning Chapter 2 describes the two variables that are linked to student learning opportunity to learn and academic work Policies concerning these two variables lay the groundwork for increasing teacher effectiveness Chapter 3 examines ways to create physically and psychologically appealing classrooms and chapter 4 presents ways in which these classrooms can be organized to promote effective teaching and learning Chapters 5 and 6 describe ways in which effective teachers structure their lessons and communicate with their students Student learning as both a process of involvement and an outcome success is discussed in the seventh chapter The final chapter offers strategies for increasing teacher effectiveness overcoming reluctance to change and providing support for improvement efforts and makes recommendations for policymakers and educational planners One figure and one table are included Appendices contain sample teacher evaluation instruments Contains 99 references LMI Designing Alternative Assessments for Interdisciplinary Curriculum in Middle and Secondary Schools Richard E. Maurer, 1996 Educational Innovation Charles E. Greenawalt, 1994 Provides an overview of the education reform movement throughout the United States and offers an agenda to ensure that US schools will offer a world class education Topics discussed include accountability assessment certification funding equity unionisation and home schooling
