Building On The Past Papers Celebrating:

The Roman House in Britain Dominic Perring,2002-09-11 This authoritative and original work sets the results of recent archaeological research in the context of classical scholarship as it explores three main aspects of Romano British buildings general characteristics of form and structure the ways in which they were built and decorated the range of activities for which they were designed This evidence is then used to discuss the social practices and domestic arrangements that characterised Romano British elite society Fully illustrated this volume is the essential guide to how houses were built used and understood in Roman Britain Land, Sea and Home John Hines,Alan Lane,Mark Redknap,2024-11-15 The twenty eight papers in this volume explore the practical ife domestic settings landscapes and seascapes of the Viking world Their geographical horizons stretch from Iceland to Russia with particular emphasis on new discoveries in the Scandinavian homelands and in Britain and Ireland With a rich combination of disciplinary perspectives new interpretations are presented of evidence for buildings and technology navigation trade and military organization the ideology of place and cultural interactions and comparisons between Viking and native groups Together these reveal the multivalent importance of settlement archaeology and history for an understanding of the pivotal phase within the Middle Ages that was the Viking Period Robert Willis (1800-1875) and the Foundation of Architectural History Alexandrina Buchanan,2013 The first full scale biography of Robert Willis the founding father of architectural history WINNER of the Cambridge Association for Local History book award 2016 Robert Willis was the archetypal nineteenth century polymath Officially as Jacksonian Professor of Natural and Experimental Philosophy at the University of Cambridge he specialized in the study of mechanism which he also taught at the Royal School of Mines in London In the field of science he was an experimentalist inventor and educational innovator Meanwhile in his spare time he pursued his passion pioneering the serious study of architectural history Initially his work was aimed at architects his role in providing an intellectual underpinning to the contemporary Gothic Revival was acknowledged by the award of the gold medal of the Royal Institute of British Architects in 1862 However his main contribution was more historical Starting with Canterbury in 1844 over the course of his career he investigated almost every English cathedral and developed an approach combining documentary and archaeological research which remains in use today His studies culminated in the monumental Architectural History of the University of Cambridge still the definitive account of its subject In this fascinating and lavishly illustrated intellectual biography drawn from extensive archival and architectural research the author sheds new light on the interconnections between Willis s varied fields of interest and his fundamental role in the creation of a discipline ALEXANDRINA BUCHANAN is both an architectural historian and an archivist her introduction to archives came throughcataloguing the papers of Robert Willis at the Cambridge University Library She is now Lecturer in Archive Studies at the University of Liverpool Cultural Transition in the Chilterns and Essex Region, 350 AD to 650 AD John T. Baker,2007-03-01 With authority and sound methodology this study compares archaeological evidence from the fourth to seventh centuries AD in the Chilterns and Essex region with the considerable body of data taken from the place names of the same area The distribution of supposedly early Old English place name elements suggests that contrary to orthodox opinion these elements are not particularly useful indicators of early Germanic influence Additionally some elements traditionally thought to be relatively unimportant may belong to an earlier stratum of place name formation By reexamining data this book presents a new theory about the emergence of Anglo Saxon culture at the end of the Romano British period and suggests that some revision of place name chronology is necessary

The Building of Elizabethan and Jacobean England Maurice Howard,2007 Transformation an introduction Bare ruin d choirs re visited All this new building the urban landscape A language for architecture The role of patrons Representing buildings Archaeologia Aeliana, Or, Miscellaneous Tracts Relating to Antiquity ,2005 International Handbook of Historical Archaeology Teresita Majewski,David Gaimster,2009-06-07 In studying the past archaeologists have focused on the material remains of our ancestors Prehistorians generally have only artifacts to study and rely on the diverse material record for their understanding of past societies and their behavior Those involved in studying historically documented cultures not only have extensive material remains but also contemporary texts images and a range of investigative technologies to enable them to build a broader and more reflexive picture of how past societies communities and individuals operated and behaved Increasingly historical archaeology refers not to a particular period place or a method but rather an approach that interrogates the tensions between artifacts and texts irrespective of context In short historical archaeology provides direct evidence for how humans have shaped the world we live in today Historical archaeology is a branch of global archaeology that has grown in the last 40 years from its North American base into an increasingly global community of archaeologists each studying their area of the world in a historical context Where historical archaeology started as part of the study of the post Columbian societies of the United States and Canada it has now expanded to interface with the post medieval archaeologies of Europe and the diverse post imperial experiences of Africa Latin America and Australasia The 36 essays in the International Handbook of Historical Archaeology have been specially commissioned from the leading researchers in their fields creating a wide ranging digest of the increasingly global field of historical archaeology The volume is divided into two sections the first reviewing the key themes issues and approaches of historical archaeology today and the second containing a series of case studies charting the development and current state of historical archaeological practice around the world This key reference work captures the energy and diversity of this global discipline today Antiquity ,1996 Includes section Reviews Catskill Aqueduct Celebration Publications George Frederick Kunz,New York (N.Y.). Mayor's Catskill Aqueduct Celebration Committee,1917 The Archaeology of Kent to AD 800 John H. Williams,2007 Kent s proximity to the European mainland has meant that it has always had a special relationship with its continental neighbours At times this has been a positive force with Kent a conduit for trade and new ideas but on other occasions the white cliffs of

Dover have symbolised defiance with Kent being in the front line in the defence of England The result has been an extremely rich archaeological heritage from Palaeolithic times onwards The opening up of the Channel Tunnel and the construction of the associated high speed railway line linking England and France together with major development activity associated with an agenda for regeneration and economic growth has resulted in unprecedented archaeological activity which has revolutionised our understanding of Kent s earlier past The contributors to this volume all of whom have specialist research interests in Kent have combined established wisdom with the fresh information from recent work to create a new and exciting story Contributors TIMOTHY CHAMPION MARTIN MILLETT MARTIN WELCH AND FRANCIS WENBAN SMITH

Annual Report ,1994 The Best Training-ground for Archaeologists Philip Freeman,2007 To his contemporaries Francis John Haverfield was the father of Romano British studies and his death on September 30th 1919 was greeted with widespread lamentation In the decades immediately following his death Haverfield s reputation survived largely undiminished in fact his view of the Romanisation of Britain became so widely accepted that it held sway for almost a century and is only now being re examined by both positive and negative interpreters of his views What is clear however is that his immense contribution to the study of Roman Britain is worthy of attention The Grubenhaus in Anglo-Saxon England Jess Tipper,2004 The City by the Pool Michael J. Carolingian Connections Joanna Story,2003 The Anglo Saxon influence on the Carolingian world has long been recognised by historians of the early medieval period Wilhelm Levison in particular has drawn attention to the importance of the Anglo Saxon contribution to the cultural and ecclesiastical development of Carolingian Francia in the central decades of the eighth century What is much less familiar is the reverse process by which Francia and Carolingian concepts came to influence contemporary Anglo Saxon culture In this book Dr Story offers a major contribution to the subject of medieval cultural exchanges focusing on the degree to which Frankish ideas and concepts were adopted by Anglo Saxon rulers Furthermore by concentrating on the secular context and concepts of secular government as opposed to the more familiar ecclesiastical and missionary focus of Levison s work this book offers a counterweight to the prevailing scholarship providing a much more balanced overview of the subject Through this reassessment based on a close analysis of contemporary manuscripts particularly the Northumbrian sources Dr Story offers a fresh insight into the world of early medieval Europe
