Building Sensitively In Irelands Landscapes:

Landscape: Pattern, Perception and Process Simon Bell, 2012-11-27 Landscapes develop and evolve through an interacting series of processes climatic geological ecological and cultural over varying periods of time These processes shape the structure and character of the landscapes which we experience Over time distinctive patterns emerge ranging in scale from the distribution of small plants to the sculptured sides of a huge canyon Our perception of these patterns goes beyond just their visual appreciation beautiful though they may be into a richer understanding of how we experience our environment By understanding this complex pattern process interaction we can obtain a deeper awareness of landscape and our place in it as inhabitants and as shapers The book explores the nature of patterns and ways of classifying them before studying the nature of perception primarily visual but including other senses then proceeds to relate this perception to aesthetics and from there to the design process From this point the main driving processes in landscape are introduced alongside the resulting patterns these being climatic landform ecosystem and cultural aspects It is this integrative approach of looking at landscape as a kind of self organising system overlaid by conscious human planning activities and the unity of pattern and process which makes this book unique Landscape draws from a wide range of neighbouring disciplines of which the landscape planner or designer needs to be aware but which are often taught as distinct elements Bell binds these fundamentals together which enables the landscape to be read and this reading to be used as the basis for planning and design This second edition updates and refreshes the original material with added sections and new photos particularly making use of the developments in satellite photography Featuring full colour throughout this textbook is ideal for anyone studying landscape architecture or any of the disciplines which intersect with the landscape and which affect it Europe's Living Landscapes Bas Pedroli, Anne van Doorn, Geert de Blust, 2014-12-22 This book is the result of three symposia of the Dutch Society for Landscape Ecology The first symposium in 2005 was about the National Ecological Network in the Netherlands The reason was that the implementation of the NEN decided upon in 1990 was halfway The second symposium in 2006 was about urban ecology and the third one to be held in 2007 will be about civil infrastructure This book does not cover the conferences completely and new contributions are added The three themes are important contexts in which landscape ecologists do their research and apply their knowledge and skills Of course there are many more subjects to hold conferences about for example climate change urbanisation agriculture landscape ecology itself etc The focus of the conferences is on the Netherlands with its urbanisation intensive land use and water management as characteristic features Although many WLO members do their work abroad or in an international context these conferences offer a window on what happens in the Dutch context The experiences may be of value for other contexts and that is why we present the results in English The selected themes and the focus on the Dutch context are serious demarcations of what landscape ecology in the Netherlands is all about The book does not represent all research and applications of landscape ecology Architecture,

Space and Memory of Resurrection in Northern Ireland Mohamed Gamal Abdelmonem, Gehan Selim, 2019-04-25 Northern Ireland has a complex urbanism with multilayered socio spatial politics In this environment issues of communication self representation and expression of identity are central to the experience of urban space and architecture where the dichotomy of division and shared living are spatially exercised in everyday life Unlike other studies in the area this book focuses on the everyday experiences of local communities in both public and private spheres issues of shareness challenging conventional approaches to divided cities The book aims to layer its narratives of architectural and social developments as an urban experience in post conflict settings over the past two decades

Housing Contemporary Ireland Michelle Norris, Declan Redmond, 2007-03-11 This book the first comprehensive accessible review of housing in Ireland for many years introduces key housing developments and also reports on the findings of the latest research on the transformation of the sector in the past decade Topics include the impact of the house price boom on wealth and affordability the urban renewal schemes and private rented housing the management of social housing the accommodation of Travellers and homeless people rural housing policy and politics During the past decade Ireland s economic growth has attracted international attention This book analyses the consequences of that growth on housing and serves as a primer to other countries on the complexities of delivering sustainable housing solutions in the face of economic success As such this book will be of interest to students practitioners and policy makers involved in the housing field worldwide and to anyone who wishes to learn more about the causes and effects of Ireland s recent housing boom
