Abc Classic Fms Word Of The Day:

ABC Classic FM's Word of the Day Kel Richards, Clive Robertson, 2004 At 7 30 am each weekday morning Classic FM listeners around Australia join Clive Robertson and Kel Richards in the national obsession with words and language Where does the word honeymoon come from Why is New York called the Big Apple How many different meanings does crib have Why do we say all of something is the whole nine yards Where does argy bargy come from And when your grandmother used the expression blatherskite what did she actually mean For the most part the questions have been posed by the listeners themselves through the suggestion box on the Classic FM website Kel Richards does the research Clive Robertson has the fun and so do the listeners Each Friday Kel puts the week s words into a terse verse doggerel designed to delight and it does or so the listeners keep saying However the listeners do have one small complaint When each day s Word of the Day is complete it vanishes into the ether and is gone forever Where they plaintively ask is the Word of the Day repository in which these verbal treasures are stored Well it s here in your hands right now to be enjoyed again to be shared with friends to be argued or pondered over in the long watches of the night The Words of the Day are no longer ephemeral they are here

Illegal Harmonies Andrew Ford, 2011-05-02 Listen What do you hear We are surrounded by sounds all the time but we tend not to hear them our brains are very good at editing what our ears pick up If we stop for a moment to listen there they are the ticking clock traffic noise fragments of conversation a passing plane These are examples of what the American composer John Cage called illegal harmony In response to the noisiest century in history modern composers have consistently flown in the face of musical orthodoxy As technology has changed at an unprecedented rate so have musical styles sometimes to the dismay of audiences and critics In Illegal Harmonies Andrew Ford charts the course of music in the concert hall and opera house over the last hundred years linking it to developments in literature theatre cinema and the visual arts and to popular music from Irving Berlin to the Beatles to rap The result is a stimulating provocative and informative cultural history This revised third edition includes a new preface and extended
