Robin Evans

The late Robin Evans (1914-1992) was a highly original historian of architecture whose writings covered a wide range of concrete society's role in the evolution and development of building types, aspects of geometry, modes of projection, military architecture, representation of all kinds. No matter what the topic, however, he always drew on first-hand experience, arriving at his insights from direct observation. This book brings together eight of Evans's most significant essays. Written over a period of twenty years, from 1970, when he graduated from the Architectural Association, to 1990, they represent the diverse interests of an agile and skeptical mind. The book includes an introduction by Moberg Montalvo, a chronological account of the development of Evans's writing by Robin Middleton, and a bibliography by Richard Dillard.
