Berg,W.K. Giloi,2012-12-06 The notion that program design is an engineering task alleviating the software crisis has been with us for about a decade With the recognized advantages of obeying to certain software design disciplines we are approaching the era of enforced system development standards which will ensure that end products will meet rigorous design requirements On the one hand advances in system architecture further the application of system development standards to software and firmware design and production On the other hand the growth in complexity of future system architectures in particular distributed systems with their special problems of cooperation and parallelism necessitate the use of rigorous specification and design techniques In addition to hampering the design process the lack of engineering techniques hinders research In many cases trial designs that are presented in abstract and informal terms do not force the designer to face the full problem spectrum and therefore may not sufficiently provide insight into the design process To prepare for the forthcoming discipline and to provide a snapshot view of recent advances in software and firmware engineering we organized in June of 1979 a seminar entitled The Use of Formal Specification of Software and Firmware The seminar took place at the Heinrich Hertz Institute Berlin and attracted over 60 participants most of them from the industry Scientific Information Bulletin ,1993 Computerworld ,1980-11-24 For more than 40 years Computerworld has been the leading source of technology news and information for IT influencers worldwide Computerworld s award winning Web site Computerworld.com twice monthly publication focused conference series and custom research form the hub of the world s largest global IT media network NASA Technical Memorandum ,1989 Advance Papers ,1987 Research and
