Indonesia Joshua Eliot,Liz Capaldi,Jane Bickersteth,David Woodley,Jasmine Saville,2001 It s been said a thousand times Indonesia is an unlikely country Of all the countries of Asia it is the hardest to corral There is no point in looking for a shared history prior to the colonial period or a shared culture or even a certain uniformity of environment Divided between over 13 000 islands hundreds of languages and cultures several time zones and spread over an expanse of sea linking Asia with Australasia it is truly a kaleidoscopic place

Rhythm, a Dance in Time Elisabeth den Otter,2001 Rhythm is produced in natural as well as cultural ways Natural rhythm is not controlled by man no more than we can control the ebb and tide of the ocean the rising and setting of the sun the seasons of the year or our own life cycle heartbeat or breathing But what man does with his body may become a cultural fact the way we walk work dance sing make music and decorate objects In music rhythm is the organization of time in units In visual arts rhythm refers to the arrangement of regularly recurring motifs Rhythmic cycles in the music of the Islamic world are illustrated in the correspondences between the art of sound and the other arts poetry and musical rhythms are related to geometrical patterns and calligraphy In South Indian music the analogies between rhythm woven patterns and symbolic figures are striking Weaving patterns reveal themselves as they emerge from the loom or unfold before the discerning eye just as a listener delights in the patterns gradually perceived by the mind and not merely received by the ear The symbolic meanings of motifs and colors are an expression of the relation between man and the cosmos Rhythm A Dance in Time explores all these aspects of rhythm rhythm to be heard and rhythm to be seen
