Autonomy And Power:

The Legal Adaptation Power in China's Ethnic Autonomous Areas WU Jingjing, CHENG Le, TAO

Chenchen, 2025-05-26 The book provides a comprehensive analysis of legal adaptation mechanisms within ethnically diverse regions. This scholarly work examines how legal systems are modified to accommodate the unique cultural, social, and historical contexts of ethnic autonomous areas while maintaining national legal cohesion. The book explores the theoretical foundations of legal adaptation power, analyzing its constitutional principles, including regional ethnic autonomy, ethnic equality, and popular sovereignty. It traces the historical evolution of legal adaptation in China and examines current practices across various domains, including civil code, criminal law, electoral law, and family planning regulations. The authors identify several challenges in implementing legal adaptation, including geographical imbalances, inconsistent application, and institutional deficiencies. They propose a framework for improvement, focused on strengthening legislative awareness, enhancing professional quality, and establishing effective accountability mechanisms. The work makes a significant contribution by emphasizing how legal adaptations help guarantee equal rights for ethnic minorities, resolve conflicts between national policies and local customs, and promote economic and social development. It advocates for a balanced approach that respects ethnic characteristics while maintaining the principle of national legal uniformity, ultimately supporting a more responsive and inclusive legal system in ethnic autonomous regions. Individualisation at Work Norbert

Ebert, 2016-05-23 Individualisation has become an ambiguous but defining feature of late modern societies, and while it is in part characterised by an increase in individual autonomy and a sense of liberation, individuals are equally required to negotiate a fragmented, pluralised, and ambiguous social order by themselves. This book sheds light on the processes and nature of contemporary individualisation, specifically exploring the manner in which it unfolds under conditions of contemporary network capitalism. With attention to the modern workplace where the individual and the organisation meet directly, but also in the wider community, Individualisation at Work reveals individualisation to become an ideological and ambiguous process of liberation, as conditions of marketisation and corporatisation transform the emancipatory qualities and motivations that define individualisation into a means for the coordination and reproduction of systemic imperatives, which are realised by individuals' qualities and capacities for self-realisation. A rigorous theoretical study, illustrated with interview material gathered amongst managers from internationally operating corporations, this book will appeal to sociologists with interests in work and organisations and the theory of contemporary modernity. Power-Sharing Pacts and the Women, Peace and Security Agenda Siobhan Byrne, Allison McCulloch, 2021-11-29

This book offers a comparative lens on the contested relationship between two leading conflict resolution norms: ethno-political power sharing pacts and the women, peace, and security (WPS) agenda. Championed by national governments and international organizations over the last two decades, power sharing and feminist scholars and practitioners tend to view them as opposing norms. Critics charge that power sharing scholars cast gender as an inconsequential political identity that does not motivate people like ethnonationalism From a feminist perspective such thinking serves the interests of ethnicized elites while excluding women and other marginalized communities from key sites of political power This edited volume takes a different tack while recognizing the gender gaps that still exist in power sharing theory and practice contributors also emphasize the constructive engagements that can be built between ethnopolitical power sharing and gender inclusion Three main themes are highlighted The gender silences of existing power sharing arrangements The impact of gender activism and advocacy on the negotiation and implementation of power sharing pacts in divided societies The opportunities for linkages between power sharing and the women peace and security agenda The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal Nationalism and Ethnic Politics chase again The world will come to you Consumer Vulnerability and Welfare in Mortgage Contracts Irina Domurath,2017-11-30 This book advocates a new way of thinking about mortgage contracts This claim is based on the assumption that we currently live in a political economy in which consumer debt fulfils a social function In the field of housing this is evidenced by the expansion of mortgage credit through which consumers are to purchase residential property as a means of social inclusion and personal welfare It is suggested that contract law needs to adjust to this new social function in order to avoid welfare losses in terms of default over indebtedness and possibly eviction To this end this book analyses theoretical contract law frameworks and makes concrete proposals for contract law in the EU legal order

Capacity Building for a Reforming African Power Sector J. Baguant,2002 Capacity building for the power sector is an important national responsibility which Governments in Africa need to seriously address The inability of Governments to mobilize the required level of investment and commitment to the development and retention of a wide array of skills needed by the power sector is in part responsible for many of the difficulties that are faced by the region s electricity industry Under the aegis of the AFREPREN Capacity Building Theme Group a regional study and four country studies Zimbabwe Mauritius Ethiopia and South Africa addressed the capacity building question in the African power sector This volume presents the findings of the studies The studies analyse issues of manpower recruitment training and retention in national power utilities They also highlight the challenges and implications of capacity building initiatives in a reforming electricity industry and propose innovative options for capacity building in the region s power sector Official Report of the Debates of the House of Commons of the Dominion of Canada Canada. Parliament. House of Commons,1891 Reactance Power Dynamics Ava Walker,AI,2025-02-27 Reactance Power Dynamics explores how psychological reactance that feeling of resistance when told what to do can be transformed from a negative trait into a powerful tool This book delves into understanding reactance its roots in social psychology and how it manifests in everyday life For instance marketers can use this knowledge to craft campaigns that avoid triggering consumer resistance and educators can create more empowering learning environments The core idea is that reactance often seen as defiance is actually a drive to protect one s freedom The book examines power dynamics in relationships and societal structures revealing how imbalances can trigger reactance It challenges traditional motivational approaches that rely on direct persuasion which often backfire Did you know that reactance is fundamentally a drive to protect one s sense of freedom By understanding this you can learn to foster collaboration and empower others to choose their own paths The book progresses systematically first defining reactance and then exploring power dynamics before culminating in practical strategies for harnessing reactance This book offers a fresh perspective by emphasizing how to harness reactance as a motivational force It provides actionable strategies and real world examples relevant to various fields including marketing political science and education Ultimately Reactance Power Dynamics aims to equip readers with the tools to become more effective communicators negotiators and influencers while also addressing the ethical
