Treasury, 2007-01-04 Independent rigorous and comprehensive analysis of the economic aspects of climate change Confronting Climate Change R. B. Chapman, Ralph E. Chapman, Jonathan Boston, Margot Schwass, 2006 The debate on the science is over Climate change is real it is happening even faster than previously thought and it is powerfully influenced by human activities As events like Hurricane Katrina the shrinking of the ice caps and the calamitous 2003 European heatwave remind us climate change is not a future threat it already profoundly affects the world we live in Scientific evidence shows that dangerous climate change can only be averted through concerted global action not in 30 years time but over the coming decade Bold policies informed public debate and decisive political leadership are critical yet many countries New Zealand among them have been slow to act With contributions by more than 30 leading scientists and policy experts from New Zealand and elsewhere this book will increase public understanding about climate change and help to develop robust effective policies It presents the latest scientific evidence examines the likely impacts of climate change on New Zealand and the Pacific and outlines a range of policy solutions It is based on a major Climate Change and Governance Conference held in Wellington in March 2006 The overwhelming message is one of urgency but also optimism it is not too late to make a difference On Strategies for Avoiding Dangerous Climate Change Daniel Klinglefeld, 2012 What are the prospects for averting dangerous climate change and which strategies offer promising avenues to successfully tackle this global challenge These questions are at the heart of the analysis in this book that begins by evaluating the possibilities and limits of transnational cooperation in climate policy. The book then investigates the normative underpinnings for avoiding dangerous climate change and looks at policy instruments for climate protection. The final section turns to developing an implementation strategy centered on the innovative concept of a Modular Carbon Market as an institutional structure for global emissions management.

Series Studies on International Environmental Policy Studien zur Internationalen Umweltpolitik Vol 15 Climate Change 2007 - Impacts, Adaptation and Vulnerability Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change. Working Group II., 2007. The Climate Change 2007 volumes of the Fourth Assessment Report of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) provide the most comprehensive and balanced assessment of climate change available. This IPCC Working Group II volume provides a completely up to date scientific assessment of the impacts of climate change, the vulnerability of natural and human environments, and the potential for response through adaptation. Written by the world's leading experts, the IPCC volumes will again prove to be invaluable for researchers, students, and policymakers, and will form the standard reference works for policy decisions for government and industry worldwide.
