force known as HALPRO was sent to attack Japan but was diverted en route and instead became embroiled in the Mediterranean theater carrying out bombing raids to arrest the progress of Axis forces Images of the early days of the RAF HALPRO and the US s 9th and 12th Air Forces illustrate the difficult sandy and dusty conditions in the North African desert as well as the less sophisticated early model B 24s The 15th Air Force operating from Southern Italy lived in tents through the particularly cold winter of 1944 45 and the sight of the snowy Alps that they crossed daily must have made crews wonder just how they would fare if their aircraft was brought down there Crossing the Adriatic would have brought different challenges the B 24 was not best regarded as a ditching platform and so the Isle of Vis off Croatia beckoned to crews dealing with fuel shortages and battle damage once they left the Croatian coast and were bound for Italy Unit photographers captured dramatic scenes as bombers were struck with flak and control was lost and many are included in this illustrated volume With more than 150 images this book presents a graphic account of the B 24 Liberator its missions and crews against the backdrop of the Mediterranean theater of war distinguished war record with its operations in the Western European Pacific Mediterranean and China Burma India theatres This book focuses on the design engineering development and tactical use of the many variants throughout the bomber's service life The overall result is as David Lee the former Deputy Director of the Imperial War Museum at Duxford said upon reading the final manuscript to be acquainted with all you never knew about the B 24 The book is enlivened by the many dramatic photographs which feature and this coupled with the clarity of Simons prose makes for an engaging and entertaining history of this iconic Allied bomber a key component in several of their biggest victories and a marvel of military engineering
