Antitrust In Transition:

Antitrust in Transition, 1991     The Next Antitrust Agenda American Antitrust Institute, 2008 The American Antitrust Institute AAI was founded in 1998 as an independent nonprofit education research and advocacy organization Celebrating its tenth anniversary during the important 2008 presidential campaign the AAI determined to utilize this year to generate an integrated vision for re energizing competition policy in the United States Ours is a vision that departs in substantial ways from the outlook that has driven competition policy for much of the past generation We offer it to the next administration without presupposition as to which party will control Congress or who the President will be Traditionally the ideal of competition as the preferred regulator of business behavior has enjoyed bipartisan support beginning with the introduction of the Sherman Act in 1890 by a Republican and its signing into law by a Republican But interpretations of what constitutes healthy competition and priorities for enforcement have varied over time sometimes dramatically Indeed there have been periods of war or depression when the ideal of competition has been eclipsed by other priorities and policies Yet time and again the ideal has been rejuvenated by both Republicans and Democrats We argue that we should now be entering a period of reinterpretation and rejuvenation This Report is the edited product of a set of committees formed in the fall of 2007 The committee chairs and participants are all members of the AAI s Advisory Board The Report consists of ten chapters and an introduction to competition policy and the philosophy behind the Report The first set of chapters examines substantive areas of antitrust law and economics including cartel enforcement monopolization merger policy and a relative newcomer to antitrust discourse buyer power The following chapters then offer prescriptions for building the institutions of public enforcement and restoring the legitimacy of private enforcement Finally the report concludes with four chapters devoted to several of the key economic sectors in which competition policy issues are currently important media food health and energy Together these sectors account for more than one third of the national economy     Antitrust Policy in Transition Eleanor M. Fox, James T. Halverson, 1984 This book contains various articles on economic principles antitrust theories Discussions include those of antitrust theories in relation to jurisprudence mergers vertical restraints     Antitrust in Transition Conference Board. Antitrust Research, 1985     Antitrust Transitions Spencer Weber Waller, Jennifer Woods, 2010 Antitrust enforcement is entering a period of transition in the United States The election of Barack Obama as President and his executive branch regulatory and judicial appointments will have importance consequences for antitrust law and enforcement although most observers believe that these changes will be relatively modest both substantively and in comparison to matters of banking reform and economic stimulus As part of that process of change there has been no shortage of advice offered to first the Obama transition team and now the Administration about how to handle competition policy going forward Two of the more substantial efforts in this regard come from well established antitrust groups with very different perspectives and memberships Both the Antitrust Section of the American Bar Association and the American Antitrust Institute have offered sophisticated lengthy public advice to the new Administration on how best to proceed in the competition law field The reports are very different in nature and reflect the different nature of the institutions that prepared them This essay takes a brief look at the transition reports offered by each organization and the vision they would offer the new Administration

In Post-communist Economies Ben Slay,2019-03-07 Even in developed capitalist economies markets function poorly without regulation by competitive forces The countries that once were part of the Eastern bloc are introducing market forces into industries created according to the monopolistic logic of central planning so that competition policy plays an important role in the transition to capitalism This interdisciplinary study examines how barriers to the development of competitive markets and competition policy are being overcome in Russia Poland Hungary and Mongolia A group of U S Russian and East European specialists explores the institutions and programs of competition policy as well as its role in the overall post Communist transition Providing a complete comparative picture of the development of competition policy in a broad cross section of formerly socialist countries the contributors consider the extent of the post Communist monopoly problem as well as progress in de monopolization Amendments to the Communications Act of 1934 United States. Subcommittee on Communications,1979 Antitrust Policy in Transition ,1984 Dominance and Monopolization Rosa Greaves,2017-05-15 Antitrust and competition law is a fast moving area of law and the subject of extensive academic research The aim of this volume is to select articles as tools for understanding how antitrust and competition law is applied to unilateral conduct which is harmful to the consumer and to the competitiveness of the market The articles examine the meaning of dominance and monopolisation and show that although legal and economic rules have been developed to establish whether undertakings hold such strong market positions it is often difficult to determine with certainty that the undertaking being investigated meets the threshold The various debates on pricing and non pricing conduct are also represented as are the conflicts that have arisen regarding the exercise of intellectual property rights by powerful undertakings particularly in the context of the new economies The volume includes scholarly articles published on both sides of the Atlantic and enables a greater understanding of the application of antitrust and competition law from the point of view of economics and politics Competition Law of the European Union Van
