Horne was the youngest of seven children of a Congregationalist preacher and MP. He won a half blue for tennis at Cambridge but was sent down for failing his exams. In 1939 he joined the RAF and rose to the rank of Wing Commander before he broke into broadcasting after compeering a troop concert on the BBC. With his brother officer Richard Dickie Murdoch he created the hugely popular Much Binding in the Marsh set on a remote RAF station somewhere in England which ran for ten years. After leaving the RAF he successfully combined two careers as a businessman and a broadcaster until he suffered a stroke in 1958 and had to cut short his business career. During his convalescence he helped to devise the legendary radio series Beyond Our Ken in which he presided amiably over a cast of anarchic characters played by Kenneth Williams, Hugh Paddick, Betty Marsden and Bill Pertwee. This was followed by Round the Horne which has been called the funniest comedy series in radio history. In 1969 Kenneth Horne collapsed and died on stage while presenting a television awards programme.

Cricket: A Political History of the Global Game, 1945-2017 Stephen Wagg, 2017-11-14 Cricket is an enduring paradox. On the one hand it symbolises much that is outmoded: imperialism, a leisured elite, a rural aristocratic Englishness. On the other it endures as a global game and does so by skilful adaptation, trading partly on its mythic past and partly on its capacity to repackage itself. This ambitious new history recounts the politics of cricket around the world since the Second World War, examining key cultural and political themes including decolonisation, racism, gender, globalisation, corruption and commercialisation. Part One looks at the transformation of cricket cultures in the ten territories of the former British Empire in the years immediately after 1945, a time when decolonisation and the search for national identity touched every cricket playing region in the world. Part Two focuses on globalisation and the game's evolution as an international sport, analysing social change and the Ashes, the campaigns for new cricket formats, the development of the women's game, the new breed of coach, the limits to the game's global expansion and the rise of India as the world's leading cricket power. Cricket: A Political History of the Global Game 1945-2017 is fascinating reading for anybody interested in the contemporary history of sport.

Fred Trueman Chris Waters, 2011-10-01 Fred Trueman was so much more than a cricketing legend. The greatest living Yorkshireman, according to Prime Minister Harold Wilson, he couldn't help excelling at everything he did, whether it was as a hostile fast bowler for Yorkshire and England and the first man to take 300 Test wickets in a career, or as a fearlessly outspoken radio summariser for Test Match Special. He was famous for regularly spluttering that 'I don't know what's going off out there' as well as for the amount of swearing he managed to incorporate into everyday speech. Beloved of cricket crowds who filled grounds to witness his belligerent way of playing the game and nothing but trouble to the cricket authorities, fiery Fred was the epitome of a full-blooded Englishman. But as Chris Waters reveals in this first full biography, behind the charismatic, exuberant mask lay a far less self-assured man, terrified even that his new dog wouldn't like him, and whose bucolic version of his upbringing bore no relation to the gritty and impoverished South Yorkshire mining community where he actually grew up. Drawing on dozens of new interviews with his Yorkshire colleagues, family and friends, this life of

Fred Trueman will surprise and even shock but also confirm the status of an English folk hero The British National
