PERspective Per Ostberg,2014-03-23 Part memoir part guidebook PERspective takes the reader along Per Ostberg s uneven path of self discovery as he lays bare the life of the expat and the challenges that lie ahead He combines his own candid personal stories from 25 years of expat life in 84 countries with formal research such as Professor Geert Hofstede's intercultural management perspectives. Perspectives answers questions about dealing with culture crash building and managing multicultural teams and avoiding the many traps that await the unsuspecting expat like alcohol drugs infidelity evacuations and corruption. It offers practical techniques for trouble shooting cultural intelligence mindfulness stress management and knowing when to leave. It explains the reality of expatriate life as opposed to common perceptions and dreams and provides a fascinating insight into the workings of the mysterious multinational companies that are such a huge part of our lives today. Per Ostberg's experience will encourage other young expats to embrace the opportunities and challenges of an overseas assignment while holding on to the personal fulfilment they need to succeed.

Uncertainty of Life and Death in Christine Brooke-Rose's 'On Terms' Maria Baciu, 2015-04-13 Seminar paper from the year 2014 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Other grade 1.3 LMU Munich course Postmodern and Contemporary Short Fiction language English abstract A common practice among contemporary authors has been the exploitation and concomitantly the questioning of other fields of discourse than the literary one. This practice developed as an attempt to oppose nineteenth century Realism defying thus the essential concept of truth of representation. This opposition can be observed especially in the unreliability of the characters as regards their vision or perception of the world. The involvement of a mediating consciousness or mediating language of the fictional character becomes thus responsible for altering the veridicity of the narration and for creating the so called suspension of disbelief. The short story On Terms written by Christine Brooke Rose was published in the collection Go When You See the Green Man Walking in 1970 and it is an experimentalist ultra modern piece of literature in structure ideas and technique. Brooke Rose has always managed to displace herself from any genre any national tradition or literary context by using a highly innovative overlap of different fields of knowledge. This story features the discourse of astrophysics as an organizing metaphor of the surrounding world and of the character's identity. The uncertainty that is cast upon the ontological status of the character the difficulty of drawing a line between what is real within the fictional world of course and what belongs to the imaginary remains the reader's responsibility concerning the text and the disclosure of its true message. This paper will deal with the scientific discourse as an element fundamental to creating a semblance of truth the language of astrophysics being the driving force that shapes the instability of the character's ontological status. Christine Brooke Rose uses the paradoxes inherent in science to create a universe of instability which is strongly held together by the use of language. Not only the jargon of astrophysics but also various post modernist narrative techniques serve here to stage a doubtful representation of truth and to illustrate the ambiguity of a character at a crossroads of life and death.
