

1. Between Jason and Medea: Who is the evil one?

In the story of the Golden Fleece, Medea is often considered the more evil character compared to Jason. It is because Medea is a sorceress who uses her magic to help Jason achieve his goal, but she does so with ulterior motives. She is willing to sacrifice her own family and people to help Jason, and she ultimately betrays him when she discovers that he has abandoned her for another woman.

Medea's actions are driven by a desire for revenge and a sense of powerlessness. She feels trapped in her marriage and sees her relationship with Jason as a means of gaining control and influence.

In contrast, Jason's actions are driven by a desire for glory and a sense of duty. He is motivated by his desire to reclaim the throne of Iolcos and to fulfill his father's legacy.

While Jason is certainly flawed and makes mistakes throughout the story, Medea's actions are more malevolent and have more devastating consequences.

2. What do Phaeton, Bellerophon, Otus, and Ephialtes have in common?

The four characters you mentioned - Phaeton, Bellerophon, Otus, and Ephialtes - are all figures from Greek mythology who share some common characteristics:

a. Character traits: All four characters are known for their hubris or excessive pride. They are all reckless and impulsive, which leads to their downfall.

b. Motivations in life: Each of them is driven by a desire for something that they are not capable of achieving. Phaeton wants to drive the sun chariot, Bellerophon wants to ride the winged horse Pegasus, Otus and Ephialtes want to fight the gods, and so on.

c. How did their lives end: All four characters meet with a tragic end. Phaeton is killed by Zeus after crashing the sun chariot, Bellerophon is forced to kill the Chimera and is then banished to a distant land where he dies, Otus and Ephialtes are killed by Zeus after they attempt to climb Mount Olympus, and so on.

These characters serve as cautionary tales about the dangers of hubris and the importance of humility.

3. How was Daedalus different from them?

Daedalus is a character from Greek mythology who is often depicted as a brilliant inventor and craftsman. He is different from Phaeton, Bellerophon, Otus, and Ephialtes in several ways:

a. Character traits: Daedalus is often depicted as a humble and wise character who is driven by a desire to create something new and innovative. He is not motivated by hubris or a desire for power.

b. Motivations in life: Daedalus is motivated by a desire to create something that will benefit humanity, rather than seeking to gain power or prestige for himself.

c. How did his life end: Daedalus dies peacefully after being taken in by King Minos of Crete, where he is reunited with his son Icarus. This is in contrast to the tragic ends of the other characters mentioned.

In conclusion, Daedalus is depicted as a positive figure who uses his talents for the greater good, whereas Phaeton, Bellerophon, Otus, and Ephialtes are cautionary tales about the dangers of hubris and excess.
