The articles in this bibliography are devoted to the issues within the American school system and how it is failing their students. The original goal of the American school system was to provide education to students and allow them to become their best self. Parents trust the same school systems that are failing their children throughout their entire education. Schools are hindering their students from maturing and become to expensive for the average adult to continue onto secondary-school. The system used today is the same system that was developed in the 1900's, which is outdated and should be reformed to reflect today's generation. The evidence to support this claim is overwhelming and students desire better.
