Archaeology In The Dodecanese:

Archaeology in the Dodecanese Søren Dietz, Ioannis Papachristodoulou, 1988 Thirty one papers from a 1986 symposium in Copenhagen which discussed the developments of archaeological research in the Dodecanese and presented accounts of recent finds in the area Papers from all over Europe but chiefly in English range from Prehistoric to Hellenistic as follows Prehistory 9 the island of Rhodes 12 the island of Cos 3 and the Dodecanese 7 The Dodecanese and the Eastern Aegean Islands in Late Antiquity, AD 300-700 Georgios Deligiannakis, 2016 The Dodecanese and the Eastern Aegean Islands in Late Antiquity AD 300 700 is a regional study of the history archaeology and religious profile of the Late Antique Dodecanese the islands of the south eastern Aegean centered on Rhodes exploring how the spread of Christianity altered these communities and how the prosperity of the eastern Roman Empire and the new capital in Constantinople affected their life Incorporating comparative evidence from the rest of the Aegean islands and both the Greek and Turkish mainlands the volume analyzes material from the whole area as part of a wider system of social and economic relations political history and culture Accompanied by an extensive archaeological gazetteer it presents the administrative and political history of the islands and considers the written and archaeological evidence for the monotheistic communities of the eastern Aegean offering a closer examination of the late history of pagan temples and the transition to Christianity It discusses the settlement and economic history of the islands focusing on the urban history of Rhodes and Kos but also on the numerous key non urban sites from the rest of the islands in particular the extended ruins of a barely known site located in the small island of Saria north of Karpathos The final chapter addresses the seventh century which saw the destruction of so much of what had been built up in the fourth to sixth centuries when the islands societies acquired a new role for the State as naval outposts functioning as a border zone in the course of the Arab Byzantine wars Religion and Cult in the Dodecanese during the First Millennium BC Manolis I. Stefanakis, Georgios Mavroudis, Fani K. Seroglou, 2023-07-20 This volume publishes the proceedings of the conference of the same name held in Rhodes in October 2018 Contributions draw on archaeological and literary sources to explore both the development and continuity of cults in the Dodecanese from the Early Iron Age through to the 1st century BC Archaeology in the dodecanese ,1988 The Wider Island of Pelops David Michael Smith, William G. Cavanagh, Angelos Papadopoulos, 2023-03-23 This volume explores the myriad ways in which pottery was created utilized and experienced in the prehistoric Aegean across a period of more than 4000 years between the Middle Neolithic and the Early Iron Age transition Beyond Thalassocracies Evi Gorogianni, Peter Pavuk, Luca Girella, 2016-08-31 Beyond Thalassocracies aims to evaluate and rethink the manner in which archaeologists approach understand and analyze the various processes associated with culture change connected to interregional contact using as a test case the world of the Aegean during the Late Bronze Age c 1600 1100 BC The 14 chapters compare and contrast various aspects of the phenomena of Minoanisation and Mycenaeanisation both of which share the basic underlying defining feature of material culture change in communities around the Aegean This change was driven by trends manifesting themselves in the dominant palatial communities of each period of the Bronze Age Over the past decade our understanding of how these processes developed and functioned has changed considerably Whereas current discussions on Minoanisation have already been informed by more recent theoretical trends especially in material culture studies and post colonial theory the process of Mycenaeanisation is still very much conceptualized along traditional lines of explanation Since these phenomena occurred in chronological sequence it makes sense that any reappraisal of their nature and significance should target those regions of the Aegean basin that were affected by both processes highlighting their similarities and differences Thus in the present volume we focus on the southern and eastern Aegean in particular the Cyclades Dodecanese and the north eastern Aegean islands

Collapse and Transformation Guy D. Middleton, 2020-04-09 The years c 1250 to 1150 BC in Greece and the Aegean are often characterised as a time of crisis and collapse A critical period in the long history of the region and its people and culture they witnessed the end of the Mycenaean kingdoms with their palaces and Linear B records and through the Postpalatial period the transition into the Early Iron Age But on closer examination it has become increasingly clear that the period as a whole across the region defies simple characterisation there was success and splendour resilience and continuity and novelty and innovation actively driven by the people of these lands through this transformative century The story of the Aegean at this time has frequently been incorporated into narratives focused on the wider eastern Mediterranean and most infamously the Sea Peoples of the Egyptian texts In twenty five chapters written by 25 specialists Collapse and Transformation instead offers a tight focus on the Aegean itself providing an up to date picture of the archaeology before and after the collapse of c 1200 BC It will be essential reading for students and scholars of the Aegean and eastern Mediterranean regions as well as providing data and a range of interpretations to those studying collapse and resilience more widely and engaging in comparative studies Introductory chapters discuss notions of collapse and provide overviews of the Minoan and Mycenaean collapses These are followed by twelve chapters which review the evidence from the major regions of the Aegean including the Argolid Messenia and Boeotia Crete and the Aegean islands Six chapters then address key themes the economy funerary practices the Mycenaean pottery of the mainland and the wider Aegean and eastern Mediterranean region religion and the extent to which later Greek myth can be drawn upon as evidence or taken to reflect any historical reality The final four chapters provide a wider context for the Aegean story surveying the eastern Mediterranean including Cyprus and the Levant and the themes of subsistence and warfare

Cutting-edge Technologies in Ancient Greece Marina Panagiotaki, Ilias Tomazos, Fotios Papadimitrakopoulos, 2020-04-30 This volume examines materials produced with the use of fire and mostly by use of the kiln metals plasters glass and glaze aromatics The technologies based on fire have been considered high tech technologies and they have contributed to the evolution of man throughout history Papers highlight technical innovations of the technician artist pyrotechnologist that lived in the Aegean mainland Greece and
