Archaeology Of Buildings:

The Archaeology of Buildings Richard K. Morriss, 2000 The study of buildings whether out of sheer interest or to assist planning decisions is a branch of archaeology which is distinct from both archaeology and architectural history yet allied to both This book begins by providing background information about studying the basic materials used in a building s construction such as stone brick or timber framing The author explains how various clues left by the builders can add to the historic background and use of the site and explains how all these strands of information can be woven together to produce a detailed understanding of how any building has developed over the years Over 100 illustrations and two invaluable appendices typical examples of buildings and an illustrated glossary of terms complete a handbook that has long been needed by professionals and amateurs alike Archaeology and Buildings European Association of Archaeologists.

Meeting, European Association of Archaeologists, 2001 These nine papers are taken from a session at the EAA fifth annual meeting in Bournemouth in 1999 They focus on different aspects of buildings and the built environment in various periods from ancient times to the present day and from theoretical practical and cultural heritage management perspectives The Archaeology and Architecture of Farm Buildings at Saumarez Station, Armidale, New South Wales Graham Connah, 2021 This book is an analysis of nineteenth and early twentieth century farm buildings recorded at three rural properties in New South Wales during the 1980s
