House and Home in Modern Japan Jordan Sand, 2005 A house is a site the bounds and focus of a community It is also an artifact a material extension of its occupants lives This book takes the Japanese house in both senses as site and as artifact and explores the spaces commodities and conceptions of community associated with it in the modern era As Japan modernized the principles that had traditionally related house and family began to break down Even where the traditional class markers surrounding the house persisted they became vessels for new meanings as housing was resituated in a new nexus of relations The house as artifact

and the artifacts it housed were affected in turn The construction and ornament of houses ceased to be stable indications of their occupants social status the home became a means of personal expression and the act of dwelling was reconceived in terms of consumption Amid the breakdown of inherited meanings and the fluidity of modern society not only did the increased diversity of commodities lead to material elaboration of dwellings but home itself became an object of special attention its importance emphasized in writing invoked in politics and articulated in architectural design The aim of this book is to show the features of this culture of the home as it took shape in Japan Frank Lloyd Wright and Japan Kevin Nute,2000 Looks at Wright s formal and philosophical debt to Japanese art and architecture Eight areas of influence are examined in detail from Japanese prints to specific individuals and publications and are illustrated with text and drawn analyses Modern Japanese Architecture Marianne Ibler,2003 Examines the architecture of Japanese architects Kenzo Tange Junzo Sakakura Kiyonori Kikutake and Kunio Maekawa leading exponents of the New Japanese School in architecture in the middle of the 20th century Beyond Metabolism Michael Franklin Ross,1978 Japan-ness in Architecture Arata Isozaki,2006 One of Japan s leading architects examines notions of Japan ness as exemplified by key events in Japanese architectural history from the seventh to the twentieth century essays on buildings and their cultural context Japanese architect Arata Isozaki sees buildings not as dead objects but as events that encompass the social and historical context not to be defined forever by their everlasting materiality but as texts to be interpreted and reread continually In Japan-ness in Architecture he identifies what is essentially Japanese in architecture from the seventh to the twentieth century In the opening essay Isozaki analyses the struggles of modern Japanese architects including himself to create something uniquely Japanese out of modernity He then circles back in history to find what he calls Japan ness in the seventh century Ise shrine the twelfth century Todai ji Temple and its sixteenth century reconstruction and the seventeenth century Katsura Imperial Villa the West s concept of architectural permanence and in the repetition of the ritual an alternative to modernity s anxious quest for origins He traces the constructive power of the Todai ji Temple to the vision of the director of its reconstruction the monk Chogen whose imaginative power he sees as corresponding to the revolutionary turmoil of the times The Katsura Imperial Villa with its chimerical spaces achieved its own Japan ness as it reinvented the traditional shoin style And yet writes Isozaki what others consider to be the Japanese aesthetic is often the opposite of that essential Japan ness that was born in moments of historic self definition the purified stylisation what Isozaki calls Japanesquisition lacks the energy of cultural transformation and reflects an island retrenchment in response to the pressure of other cultures autobiographical account these essays written over a period of twenty years demonstrate Isozaki s standing as one of the world s leading architects and pre eminent architectural thinkers Japan Christopher Dresser, □□□□□:□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□,2018-09-18
