Landscape Architecture Stephen Child, 2015-06-17 Excerpt from Landscape Architecture A Definition and a Resume of Its Past and Present There is at the present time much apparent misunderstanding of the terms Landscape Architecture and Landscape Gardening It is not unusual to hear it stated that this calling a man a landscape architect instead of a landscape gardener is merely a fad filling one's mind with images of quarries stone cutters creaking derricks tapping trowels and the like instead of with pictures of free hand dealings with sunshine and shadow trees flowering shrubs and leaping fountains One well known writer has even gone so far as to state that the men most deeply engaged in the art have not decided what to call it and that it is suspected that the present fashion among the professional brethren of calling themselves landscape architects is promoted by two accidental causes first the feeling that architecture sounds bigger than gardening and can demand a better fee and second the fact that the architectural style of landscape work is the present vogue among wealthy clients I am going to ask you to look at this a little more carefully with me and see what is true in this discussion In the first place the term is not a recent fad Frederick Law Olmsted the elder called himself a landscape architect away back in 1856 when he first entered upon the work of developing Central Park in New York City and the fact that he did so and continued to so designate himself during the whole of his career has had much to do with the general adoption of the term But the fact that one man even an eminent one adopted this title is perhaps not entirely sufficient although those of us who are familiar with Mr Olmsted's work and with his wonderful genius and mastery of the subject in all of its details may well feel assured that he did not adopt the title without most careful thought Unfortunately he did not in his writings so far as I am aware really explain his reasons He was so immersed in the great battle then going on for public parks for large cities in showing their value and necessity and in laying down the principles and executing the work of these great undertakings that he apparently had little time to explain fully why he assumed the title About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works The Fundamentals of

been written by someone who is both an experienced gardener and a landscape architect With Overgrown Julian Raxworthy offers a watershed work in the tradition of Ian McHarg Anne Whiston Spirn Kevin Lynch and J B Jackson As a discipline landscape architecture has distanced itself from gardening and landscape architects take pains to distinguish themselves from gardeners or landscapers Landscape architects tend to imagine gardens from the office representing plants with drawings or other simulations whereas gardeners work in the dirt in real time planting pruning and maintaining In Overgrown Raxworthy calls for the integration of landscape architecture and gardening Each has something to offer the other Landscape architecture can design beautiful spaces and gardening can enhance and deepen the beauty of garden environments over time Growth says Raxworthy is the medium of garden development landscape architects should leave the office and go into the garden in order to know growth in an organic nonsimulated way Raxworthy proposes a new practice for working with plant material that he terms the viridic after the tectonic in architecture from the Latin word for green with its associations of spring and growth He builds his argument for the viridic through six generously illustrated case studies of gardens that range from formal to informal approaches from a sixteenth century French Renaissance water garden to a Scottish poet scientist s marginal garden barely differentiated from nature Raxworthy argues that landscape architectural practice itself needs to be gardened brought back into the field He offers a Manifesto for the Viridic that casts designers and plants as vegetal partners in a renewed practice of landscape gardening

The Course of Landscape Architecture
Christophe Girot, 2016-04-26 The first significant history of human intervention on the landscape since Geoffrey Jellicoe s Landscape of Man originally published in 1975 In many ways the history of civilization is a history of humans relationship with nature Starting from the dual inclination to clear land for cultivation and to enclose space for protection the forest clearing and the walled garden there emerges a vital and multifaceted narrative that describes our cultural relationship to and dependence on the landscape Christophe Girot sets out to chronicle this history drawing on all aspects of mankind s creativity and ingenuity In twelve chapters he brings together the key stories that have shaped our man made landscapes Each chapter consists of a thematic essay that ties together the central developments as well as a case study illustrated with specially commissioned photographs and meticulously detailed 3D re creations showing the featured site in its original context The result of over two decades of teaching experience and academic research at one of the world s leading universities The Course of Landscape Architecture will reach international students and professionals But its wealth of visual material the wide range of its cultural references and the beauty of the landscapes it features will attract the interest of all who desire to enrich their understanding of how our landscapes have been formed and how we relate to them

On Accident Edward Eigen, 2018-02-02 Engaging essays that roam across uncertain territory in search of sunken forests unclassifiable islands inflammable skies plagiarized tabernacles and other phenomena missing from architectural history This collection by architectural history s most beguiling essayist as Reinhold Martin calls the author in the book s foreword illuminates the unfamiliar the arcane the obscure phenomena largely missing from architectural and landscape history These essays by Edward Eigen do not walk in a straight line but roam across uncertain territory discovering sunken forests unclassifiable islands inflammable skies unvisited shores plagiarized tabernacles Taken together these texts offer a group portrait of how certain things fall apart We read about the statistical investigation of lightning strikes in France by the author astronomer Camille Flammarion which leads Eigen to reflect also on Foucault Hamlet and the role of the anecdote in architectural history We learn about among other things Olmsted s role in transforming landscape gardening into landscape architecture the connections among hedging hedge funds the High Line and GPS bandwidth timber frame roofs and spider web based learning the archives of the Houses of Parliament through flood and fire and what the 1898 disappearance and reappearance of the Trenton New Jersey architect William W Slack might tell us about the conflict between the migratory impulse and love of home Eigen compares his essays to the gathering up of seeds that fell by the wayside The seedlings that result create in the reader s imagination a dazzling display of the particular the contingent the incidental and the singular all in search of a narrative
