Architecture Landscape Gardening Of Th:

Overgrown Julian Raxworthy, 2023-08-01 A call for landscape architects to leave the office and return to the garden Addressing one of the most repressed subjects in landscape architecture this book could only have been written by someone who is both an experienced gardener and a landscape architect With Overgrown Julian Raxworthy offers a watershed work in the tradition of Ian McHarg Anne Whiston Spirn Kevin Lynch and J B Jackson As a discipline landscape architecture has distanced itself from gardening and landscape architects take pains to distinguish themselves from gardeners or landscapers Landscape architects tend to imagine gardens from the office representing plants with drawings or other simulations whereas gardeners work in the dirt in real time planting pruning and maintaining In Overgrown Raxworthy calls for the integration of landscape architecture and gardening Each has something to offer the other Landscape architecture can design beautiful spaces and gardening can enhance and deepen the beauty of garden environments over time Growth says Raxworthy is the medium of garden development landscape architects should leave the office and go into the garden in order to know growth in an organic nonsimulated way Raxworthy proposes a new practice for working with plant material that he terms the viridic after the tectonic in architecture from the Latin word for green with its associations of spring and growth He builds his argument for the viridic through six generously illustrated case studies of gardens that range from formal to informal approaches from a sixteenth century French Renaissance water garden to a Scottish poet scientist s marginal garden barely differentiated from nature Raxworthy argues that landscape architectural practice itself needs to be gardened brought back into the field He offers a Manifesto for the Viridic that casts designers and plants as vegetal partners in a renewed practice of landscape gardening

The Architecture and Landscape Gardening of the Exposition Louis Christian Mullgardt, 2005-08-01

The Architecture and Landscape Gardening of the Exposition Louis Christian Mullgardt, 2022-08-15 In The Architecture and Landscape Gardening of the Exposition Louis Christian Mullgardt presents a comprehensive exploration of the architectural innovations and landscape designs that characterized the early 20th century exposition The book meticulously details the aesthetic principles spatial arrangements and cultural significances of the structures and gardens that defined the exposition utilizing a blend of evocative prose and analytical rigor Mullgardt engages with contemporary architectural movements embedding his observations within the broader discourse of landscape architecture and invites readers to consider the interplay between nature and built environments in shaping public spaces Louis Christian Mullgardt a prominent architect and landscape designer himself was deeply influenced by the arts and crafts movement and the burgeoning American architecture scene of his time His first hand experiences working on the Panama Pacific International Exposition in 1915 provided him with valuable insights informing both his theoretical perspectives and practical applications in the book Mullgardt's appreciation for harmony between nature and structure shines through his examination of the exposition's design philosophy For anyone intrigued by the nexus of architecture and landscape design this scholarly work serves as an essential text Mullgardt's insights not only enrich our understanding of the exposition but also serve to inspire current and future generations of architects and urban planners This book is highly recommended for students professionals and scholars alike who wish to delve into the legacy and implications of exposition era design The Architecture and Landscape Gardening of the Exposition Louis Mullgardt,2018-07-05 The Architecture and Landscape Gardening of the Exposition Louis Christian Mullgardt The Architecture and Landscape Gardening of the Exposition A Pictorial Survey of the Most Beautiful Architectural Compositions of the Panama Pacific International Exposition Louis Christian Mullgardt When San Francisco was destroyed by fire in 1906 many people predicted that the city would never be rebuilt A great number of men and women packed their goods and chattels and hastily bade farewell to the still smoking ruins of a City That Was firmly believing that destiny had determined that it should remain forever buried in its own ashes There was another class of men and women who were optimists They predicted that the city would be rebuilt but that it would require from twenty to thirty years There was still another class of men and women who knew by observation that it required no more time to build ten buildings than one provided the Spirit of Energy and Determination existed to fortify the desire We all know now that the Spirit of Energy and Determination did abound in San Francisco that the City did not remain buried in its own ashes and that it did not require from twenty to thirty years to rebuild it The City was not only rebuilt in less than ten years but in addition thereto an International Exposition surpassing all previous Expositions was built by its people San Francisco wisely selected for the location of this International Exposition what seemed to many to be an impossible site for it was disorderly and uninteresting to look at But the site was appropriately situated on the shores of San Francisco Bay beautiful in its surroundings and most convenient alike to its citizens and visitors It consisted of a pond and a strip of waste land and marsh land apparently destined to remain unfilled and unorderly for years to come We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works To ensure a high quality product each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for you it becomes an enriching experience Gardens in the Modern Landscape Christopher Tunnard,2014-07-23 Between 1937 and 1938 garden designer Christopher Tunnard published a series of articles in the British Architectural Review that rejected the prevailing English landscape style Inspired by the principles of Modernist art and Japanese aesthetics Tunnard called for a new technique in garden design that emphasized an integration of form and purpose The functional garden avoids the extremes both of the sentimental expressionism of the wild garden and the intellectual classicism of the formal garden he wrote it embodies rather a spirit of rationalism and through an aesthetic and practical ordering of its units provides a friendly and hospitable milieu for rest and recreation Tunnard s magazine pieces were republished in book form as Gardens in the Modern Landscape in 1938 and a revised second edition was issued a decade later Taken together these articles constituted a manifesto for the modern garden its influence evident in the work of such figures as Lawrence Halprin Philip Johnson and Edward Larrabee Barnes Long out of print the book is here reissued in a facsimile of the 1948 edition accompanied by a contextualizing foreword by John Dixon Hunt Gardens in the Modern Landscape heralded a sea change in the evolution of twentieth century design and it also anticipated questions of urban sprawl historic preservation and the dynamic between the natural and built environments Available once more to students practitioners and connoisseurs it stands as a historical document and an invitation to continued innovative thought about landscape architecture
