In the nineteenth century the story in Europe and North America became more complicated with the competing forces of Romanticism and industrial functionalism leading to apparently contradictory results a situation that continues today in the clash between postmodernism and high tech But perspectives change and every decade has its own views of the past Eastern Europe has inevitably been underrepresented in Western criticism since 1945 Czech Baroque Polish Neoclassicism and Hungarian Art Nouveau provide some unexpected revelations Illustrated throughout with photographs closely linked to the text this is a guide for the student and general reader to follow into the twenty first century 456 black and white illustrations
