Due attention is given to paradigmatic case or comparative studies that exhibit a clear theoretical orientation with the empirical and historical data of religion and such aspects of religion as ritual, the religious imagination, constructions of tradition, iconography or media. In addition the formation of religious communities, their construction of identity and their relation to society and the wider public are key issues of this series.

Globalization and Marginalization in Mountain Regions Raghbir Chand, Walter Leimgruber, 2016-06-14 This book looks at the global importance of mountain systems emphasizing their ecological and socio economic role in light of climate change and globalization. With a special focus on the Himalayas it also examines the Czech German Austrian mountain borderland, the Alps, the Andes, the highland regions of Malaysia and the Arctic. The contributors, specialists in their fields, all use an integrative approach that develops and argues the concept of mountain regions as a global common good. Readers also discover that mountain systems and mountain communities are often marginalized and left behind by the process of globalization. Case studies throughout detail the effects of climate change and global warming on both nature and local regional societies such as declining water supplies, a shifting vegetation line and other important issues facing not only mountains but also the vast regions depending on them. In addition the comprehensive coverage offers authenticated viewpoints from some of the most eminent explorers of Tibet in the nineteenth century. More than 50 percent of the global human population draws benefits directly or indirectly from mountain resources and services. This book provides practitioners, researchers, students and other interested readers with a compelling look at the global importance of this imposing yet sensitive ecosystem.
