Are Computers Alive? Geoffrey Leslie Simons, 1983 The Biology of Computer Life SIMONS, 2012-12-06 The doctrine of computer life is not congenial to many people Often they have not thought in any depth about the idea and it necessarily disturbs their psychological and intellectual frame of reference it forces a reappraisal of what it is to be alive what it is to be human and whether there are profound yet un expected implications in the development of modern computers There is abundant evidence to suggest that we are witnessing the emergence of a vast new family of life forms on earth organisms that are not based on the familiar metabolic chemistries yet whose manifest life credentials are accumulating year by year It is a mistake to regard biology as a closed science with arbitrarily limited categories and we should agree with Jacob 1974 who observed that Contrary to what is imagined biology is not a unified science Biology is essentially concerned with living things and we should be reluctant to assume that at anyone time our concept and understanding of life are complete and incapable of further refinement And it seems clear that much of the continuing refinement of biological categories will be stimulated by advances in systems theory and in particular by those advances that relate to the rapidly expanding world of computing and robotics We should also remember what Pant in 1968 said in a different context the biological sciences are unrestricted and their investigator must be prepared to follow their problems into any other science whatsoever REviewing REthinking REturning Alan Wittbecker, 2006 This book reviews and recasts many popular ideas using an ecological perspective ecological design principles and ecological thought experiments
