Crossroads of the Mediterranean Tony Hackens, Nancy D. Holloway, R. Ross Holloway, 1984 At the Crossroads of the Mediterranean Richard Hodges, 1988 Crossroads of the Mediterranean Hendrik De Leeuw, 1954 The Mythical Mediterranean Sea Nick Ceramella, Umberto Gori, 2019-04-25 This volume brings together papers presented at the 7th Annual International Conference co organised by Florence University of the Arts Italy and Stony Brook University SUNY USA The contributors explored the many connections that define the Mediterranean Sea as a symbol of tradition and modernity and examined it as a region capable of congregating synergizing and transforming cultures Their writings focus on the relationship between the cultural social and historical environment of Mare Nostrum to pinpoint the elements defining its identity Hence particular emphasis is placed on the role and relevance of the Mediterranean as the first beacon of multi ethnicity which may be seen as a symbol of diversity and unity as well as a model that holds clues to understanding the global merging of cultures As such it is a real shame to see that the general interest in this unique and fascinating area has arisen not thanks to such highly positive features but because as Pope Francis says it has become an open air cemetery where thousands of people keep drowning The multifaceted approach to this topic has resulted in the book being divided into four sections covering the following thematic areas Literature History Culture and Identity Vital Crossroads Reynolds Mathewson Salerno, 2002 Most international historians present the outbreak of World War II as the result of an irreconcilable conflict between Great Britain and Germany This ubiquitous Anglo German perspective fails to recognize complex causes and repercussions of international events misappropriates historical responsibilities and overlooks many global and imperial factors of the war s origins Reynolds M Salerno shows that the situation in the Mediterranean played a decisive role in the European drama of the late 1930s and profoundly influenced the manner in which the Second World War unfolded Vital Crossroads is the result of the author s remarkable access to and extensive research in twenty eight archives in five different countries Concentrating on the period from the Mediterranean crisis of 1935 to Italy s declaration of war in June 1940 Salerno demonstrates that the international politics of pre World War II Europe particularly in the Mediterranean can only be understood as the multilateral interaction of British French German and Italian foreign and defense policies Control of the Mediterranean he asserts was a central concern for the European powers in 1935 40 and a fundamental reason why Europe went to war and why the conflict unfolded as it did As a result France and Italy influenced and often determined the nature and direction of Allied and Axis policy to an extent disproportionate to their nations military and economic strength Salerno contends that the Allies reluctance to take decisive action against Fascist Italy in 1939 40 contributed to the fall of France in 1940 Britain's desperate situation in 1940-41 and the post-war collapse of Britain as a world power. At a time when the Allied powers dreaded the ability of the German military to march across the European continent, they also feared that the Italian armed forces would strive to fulfill Mussolini's grand imperial ambitions in the Mediterranean. Crossroads of the Mediterranean, 1984. Hoover Institution on War, Revolution, and Peace, 1969. Human Geography by Grades James Fairgrieve, Ernest Young, 1927. Malta: at the Crossroads of the Mediterranean, 1997. Mediterranean Crossroads Sophia Antoniadou, Anthony Pace, 2007. This book contains the thirty papers delivered at the International Archaeological Conference in Athens 10-13 May 2005. These papers are selected essays from the conference which was organised within the framework of the project Crossings: Movements of People and Movement of Cultures: Changes in the Mediterranean from Ancient to Modern Times, a project that had been initiated by the Pierides Foundation. All contributors to this volume discuss various issues of Mediterranean archaeology along two broad thematic sessions. The first one was devoted to recent advances in theory and in fieldwork that had significantly contributed to our understanding of key themes in Mediterranean archaeology. Scholars contributed papers related to issues such as the movement of people and the circulation of objects and ideas throughout the Mediterranean during prehistory and history. Specific areas of interest covered cultural diffusion and indigenous development, local identity and regional processes, population movement, object biographies, trade and gift exchange, islandscapes vs. landscapes, travel and transport technologies and colonisation. The second general theme broadened the conference discussion through an interdisciplinary debate concerning the sociopolitical implications of the postmodern agenda in the present and the impact of this agenda on the study of the Mediterranean past. The sessions related to this theme addressed contemporary concerns with the cultural heritage of the Mediterranean as a source of social identities and common heritage. Issues concerning the use and abuse of the Mediterranean past and identity in the present, the politics of the Mediterranean past and perceptions of how the region's heritage is or should be perceived were central to this section. The subject matter of the volume covers a long time span from the Neolithic to contemporary times. The volume embraces the Eastern, Central and Western basins of the Mediterranean. The Royal Navy and Maritime Power in the Twentieth Century Ian Speller, 2004-08-02. This book adopts an innovative new approach to examine the role of maritime power and the utility of navies. It uses a number of case studies based upon key Royal Navy operations in the twentieth century to draw out enduring principles about maritime power and to examine the strengths and limitations of maritime forces as instruments of national policy. Individual chapters focus on campaigns and operations from both World Wars and a series of post-1945 crises and conflicts from the Palestine Patrol in the 1940s to Royal Navy operations in support of British policy in the 1990s. Each case study demonstrates critical features of maritime power including operations during the transition to war, fleet operations in narrow seas, logistics, submarine operations, the impact of air power on maritime operations blockade maritime power projection amphibious warfare jurisdictional disputes and the law of the sea and peace support operations The contributors to this book all have considerable experience lecturing on these issues at the United Kingdom Joint Services Command and Staff College where maritime campaign analysis is used to teach the principles of maritime power to officers of the Royal Navy The book combines an authoritative examination of critical Royal Navy operations during the twentieth century with a sophisticated analysis of the nature of maritime power As such it is of both historical interest and contemporary relevance and will prove equally valuable to academic historians military professionals and the general reader
