Liminalities of Gender and Sexuality in Nineteenth-Century Iranian Photography Staci Gem Scheiwiller,2016-12-01 Nineteenth century Iran was an ocularcentered society predicated on visibility and what was seen and unseen and photographs became liminal sites of desire that maneuvered betwixt and between various social spaces public private seen unseen accessible and forbidden thus mapping graphing and even transgressing those spaces especially in light of increasing modernization and global contact during the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Of primary interest is how photographs negotiated and coded gender sexuality and desire becoming strategies of empowerment of domination of expression and of being seen Hence the photograph became a vehicle to traverse multiple locations that various gendered physical bodies could not and it was also the social and political relations that had preceded the photograph that determined those ideological spaces of immobility In identifying these notions in photographs one may glean information about how modern Iran metamorphosed throughout its own long duration or resisted those societal transformations as a result of modernization
